

a cold day calls for a hot drink

—for children especially

A cold drink on a cold day—ugh! But a cup of Ghirardelli's—that's different! Its piping hot fragrance smells so good that children are always ready for it. And in nourishment it's milk-plus. Moreover, Ghirardelli's Ground Chocolate is stomach-safe for children. It is an ideal blend of unsweetened chocolate, cocoa and pure sugar which contains just enough fat to be easily digested.

REPORT ON WORK OF NURSE IN ESQUIMALT

Much Progress Made in Child Welfare During Year

Colwood, October 27.—The annual meeting of the Esquimalt Rural Nursing Service, which covers the districts of Colwood, Langford, Lytton and Happy Valley, Albert Head, and Goldstream, was held in the Colwood Hall Monday evening, Oct. 25, when there was an excellent attendance, numbering about 100 people representing the various districts concerned.

The chair was taken by A. S. Burgess, first vice-president and acting president since the removal of R. I. Van der Byl, president elect at last annual meeting, from the district to Vancouver.

The financial statement presented by the secretary treasurer, showed receipts for the year to have been a total of $2,558.71, of which $265.45 was balance on hand at last annual meeting, $238.05 collected in nursing, Metropolitan and dental fees, $371.32 received in tax dues from the five districts concerned, $750 in monthly grants from the Provincial Department of Health, and miscellaneous $253.88. Expenditure totaled $2,325.58, which was made up of nurses' salary (in part) $920, secretary's salary $120, dentist's fees $198, telephone $47.94, car and running expenses $524.37, construction of garage $268.72, miscellaneous $30.54, balance in bank and on hand $233.13. Liabilities $12.50.

The report of the auditor, W. T. Dixon, certified that the books were properly kept and correctly stated to show the true position of the affairs of the association.

The report of the nurse in charge, Miss H. Kelly, showed that 106 visits have been made to the schools in the districts throughout the ten school months and an average of 128 children per month inspected. An average of fifty home visits per month had been made; 239 home school visits (follow up work) and sixty-one child welfare work; nineteen pre-natal visits had been made; 197 social service visits; 103 health talks given and health club meetings had been held weekly throughout the season; 453 actual paid nursing visits had been made including visits to Metropolitan Life Insurance Policy holders; forty-three free nursing visits, nineteen patients transported to hospital in Victoria; eighty-four minor treatments given, several minor accidents attended, thirty visits to dentist in Victoria with an average of four children per visit. The nurse concluded her report by remarking that she was pleased to report that there had been no epidemics, as in each year infectious diseases were found, immediate precaution had been taken, with full co-operation by parents and teachers, and spread prevented.

PROGRESS

The report of the chairman dealt with the progress of the work during the past year and showed that steady progress continued to be evidenced and thanked the gathering for their interest, which was testified to by the excellent attendance. Mr. Burgess spoke of the aims and objects of the association, which were in brief to make this the healthiest district in the Province by obtaining health and keep it, and by laying the foundations of good health by strict attention to the teeth of the children, the time of the children's first appearance. Mr. Burgess spoke highly of the work of the past president, Mr. Van der Byl, saying that the association owed him a debt of gratitude for the achievements of the past and called for a vote of thanks which was heartily given, a copy of which will be forwarded to Mr. Van der Byl in Vancouver. Mr. Burgess also thanked Dr. Young for his help and advice, Dr. Irene Bastow Hudson for her excellent work, and to the council for the appreciation of the council to the nurse for her efficient work in the districts, and thanked the auditor, Mr. Dixon, for his thorough auditing of the books and accounts. The secretary, Mrs. C. Brown, also received a hearty vote of thanks for her work during the past.

CHILD WELFARE

Mrs. V. S. MacLachlan, superintendent of women's institutes of British Columbia, gave a short and interesting address in which she spoke of the relations between the women's institutes and public health work, urging them to get behind the work of child welfare which is part of the women's institute movement. Dr. Irene Bastow Hudson gave a short report as medical adviser to the council and school medical inspector, saying that the districts concerned were in good health, and that the general health was exceedingly satisfactory throughout all the schools inspected by her. The constitution of the association was amended by three resolutions recommended by the council, making provision for the executive committee to be composed of the president, first vice-president, and second vice-president, reducing the quorum necessary for annual meetings and general meetings of the association, and also prohibiting further extension of the present health district with the exception of allowing the Highlands District to join at such time as is thought advisable, as in the opinion of the council the present district is quite large enough for one association and one nurse to handle. All three resolutions were carried unanimously.

ENTERTAINMENT

Pleasant intermissions in the form of attractive entertainment took place throughout the meeting. The Misses May Wishart, Irene and Eleanor Peatt, and Edith Walsh performed cross sword and Highland dances with excellent precision under tuition and direction of Pipe Major Wishart, who accompanied them on the pipes. Miss M. Pottinger and J. Moss, pupils of L. de Costa, at the request of P. Smiley, entertained the gathering with songs pleasingly rendered by Miss Pottinger and pianoforte solos excellently executed by Mr. Moss. Votes of thanks were heartily accorded the artists and the speakers of the evening. Mr. Smiley and Pipe Major Wishart.

The following representatives of the five districts were elected to constitute the council for the ensuing year:

Luxton and Happy Valley—Mrs. R. Brown, Mrs. Hutchison and A. W. Weeks.

Albert Head—Messrs. E. P. Ashe, A. G. Devenon and Major Meredith Jones.

Colwood—A. S. Burgess, J. W. Little and H. Goucher.

Langford—W. T. Dixon, H. Pearce and F. Smiley.

Goldstream—Mr. and Mrs. W. Payne and Mrs. Duncan Mackenzie.

The officers of the association are: President, A. S. Burgess; first vice-president, E. P. Ashe; second vice-president, Mrs. R. Brown, who constitutes the executive committee. Secretary-treasurer, Mrs. C. Brown; auditor, W. T. Dixon and medical advisor, Dr. L. Bastow Hudson.

ASSISTANCE IS GIVEN ARMENIAN SUFFERERS

Transcaucasian Federation Supplies 50,000,000 Rubles For Earthquake Area

Killed and Injured in Great Disturbance Totaled More Than 5,000

Constantinople, Oct. 27.—Soviet officials here to-day received reports from Erivan stating more than 5,000 persons were killed or injured in the recent earthquake in Armenia.

The villages of Alashkep, Yenibayazide and Ditchmazine were destroyed.

Churches along the line from Ghemur to Erivan suffered heavily. The Near East Relief is caring for the homeless and the Transcaucasian Federation has sent 50,000,000 rubles for the relief of the earthquake victims. It is believed Turkish territory was not touched by the quake, as no reports concerning it have been received from the Turkish district near Armenia.

1,400 ARE HOMELESS ON ISLE OF PINES

300 Canadian and U.S. Citizens There Need Shelter Following Great Hurricane

Havana, Oct. 27.—Between 300 and 400 Canadians and United States citizens are urgently in need of shelter on the Isle of Pines in consequence of last week's hurricane, according to reports brought here by Hughes Hallett, wife of the British Charge d'Affaires, who returned from a trip to the island. Fourteen hundred persons are housed on the island, Mrs. Hallett says. Of these, 800 are at Nueva Gerona, 300 at Santa Barbara and 300 at Santa Fe.

WOMAN PRAISED

Mrs. Hallett also special praise for a Canadian woman, Mrs. Wilkins, who worked forty-eight hours in aiding the injured. She closed a wound in one woman's head with an ordinary needle and thread. The woman is recovering.

While lacking housing protection, she says, the residents have supplies of food and medicines. The United States relief committee in Havana is making strenuous efforts to get tents to the sufferers. It is believed the first estimate of thirty-two fatalities on the island, including seventeen United States citizens, is substantially correct.

Better weather, however, has as yet been unable to reach all points in the extreme western section. Property losses are heavy and aid is needed in the work of reconstruction.

LIQUOR PENALTIES ARE GIVEN IN MANITOBA

St. Boniface, Man., Oct. 27.—Heavy fines were imposed yesterday on five men convicted of violations of the Manitoba Temperance Act, when they appeared before Judge L. P. Ray in county court.

Louis Rondo and Henry Vine, convicted of keeping liquor for sale, were sentenced to serve two months in jail and each was fined $300.

William Vine, David White and Thomas Halliday, convicted of charges of illegal sale of liquor were fined $100 each.

The cases resulted from a raid made by police on September 11. After defence counsel had asked for minimum sentences, Judge Roy declared he believed the Manitoba Temperance Act had been passed for one purpose only, namely, "to wipe out the illegal sale of liquor, especially in cases where the sale is being carried out as an organized traffic."

Immediate appeals were entered in the cases as the men were released on bail.

VICTORIA BUREAU SUPPORTS AGENT-GENERAL FOR B.C.

That the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau is giving whole-hearted support to the Agent-General for British Columbia in London in advertising this province was the text of a letter received by the bureau to-day, thanking it for an article on British Columbia Game Fish which appeared in the magazine Scottish Field, and which had been arranged for through the Agent-General.

An excerpt from the letter reads as follows: "This letter of yours contains the best measure of support that I have received from many sources in British Columbia since I arrived in London three years ago, and I can assure you I would appreciate similar backing from the various districts of our Province."

LIQUOR DIFFICULTIES

Toronto, Oct. 27.—The presentation of the grand jury before Chief Justice Meredith at the end of the assizes here yesterday contained a rider mentioning the extreme difficulty in enforcing the Ontario Temperance Act, which had been evident in the cases before the jury.

NATURE NOTES
By ROBERT CONNELL

AUTUMN'S WEALTH

We are in the midst of the glories of the fading leaf. The late winds have given us showers of gold and bronze. But the trees and shrubs still retain enough of their Autumn dowry to satisfy the eye. In the country the other afternoon I was much struck with the beauty of coloration. In Eastern Canada there is a peculiar brilliancy which I can well imagine though my only tastes of it were a few scarlet maples some years ago. Prairie people lack the variety of tint of East and West, but they have in an ordinary favorable year a perfect deluge of gold when the aspens change their Summer dress. On the coast our Autumn tints are not as a rule of startling brilliancy; but even where the foliage over a fairly large area is principally of one kind the Fall colors are broken, subdued here, heightened there, in the most fascinating way. Our wealth of shrubs emphasizes this on a larger scale. On the walk I referred to I noted the following colors, premising that the representation of colors verbally is always unsatisfactory. The spiraea leaves were a peculiarly clear rose color. The red-barked dogwood had a deeper tint, a sort of purplish crimson. The white cherry had perished the most vivid coloration, a bright scarlet. The native thorn had a very similar scarlet, but it was mingled very effectively with yellow and green. The leaves of the sassafras were a yellow running from pale ochre to clear lemon. The hollyhocks were pale yellow and green, while their near relatives, the cottonwoods, were golden below, passing into green above. Among the several species of willow some diversity was shown, but the predominant tint was an olive-green with clear bright yellow intermingled. The oaks were almost uniformly golden brown, but the irregularity of their foliage from the individual leaf to the mass gives a certain quality of richness.

BEAUTY FOR ASHES

The decay of the leaf is a never-ending phenomenon. Children love the color and the leaves falling against the sky. They love the piles of gold and copper and bronze that whisper so loudly to the disturbing feet and hands, and when burning, make so pleasant an odor, both sweet and pungent. Botanists and chemists have wrestled with the problem of the substances that cause the variety of colors. They are new in the physiology of the plant, by-products, I suppose one might call them, of all the marvelous chemistry of Summer. But what their utility is presents to the scientist a more puzzling question. So far as the plant is concerned all this wealth of scarlet and gold is superfluous and useless. We touch at this point a constantly recurring problem of the universe, a problem at least to all who desire a purely utilitarian explanation of things. I am constrained to think that there is about the form and color for which no really satisfying explanation can be given in terms of usefulness, unless indeed we are prepared to extend the range of that term beyond its customary limits. There are not only conspicuous and manifestly apparent beauties of feather, petal, crystal, but infinitely more of the microscopic kind, that refuse to come under our ordinary schemes of relations to ends. The decaying leaf adds, so far as chemistry has been able to ascertain nothing to the soil's fertility by the beauty of its color. At any rate our human minds are so adjusted to our universe that on every hand there are things, forms, colors, scenes, sounds, which touch us emotionally.

apart from any special quality of usefulness. "To her fair works did Nature link 'The human soul that through me ran'."

The spiders are very busy these days. The bushes and the grass are full of them. In the course of an hour the other morning I saw four species of orb-weavers at work. One was a rapid and somewhat careless worker, but not so the others. I had a peculiarly favorable opportunity of watching a large humped Aranea. She was weaving her web in the ivy along a garden fence. At the moment of my arrival she had reached the stage of a spiral thread from one radial thread to another. She was, I may say, a very handsome creature, reddish yellow with deeper red touches on the body and bands on the legs. Seizing the next radius with one of her rear feet she would bring forward the thin line of silk from the last, its end still connected with her spinnerets. She was waiting for a "bite." It was a very interesting proceeding and I watched it for some time. She was very deeply immersed in her work and although I touched her she went on steadily. Further off in a broom-bush I found one of a much smaller species at work with equal care. In a completed orb of a third species I was greatly struck with the little canopy under which the spider was waiting for a "bite." It was made by bringing together several rose leaves and weaving a curtain of silk above where their petals left a space. Under this living tent her ladyship sat in stately patience. Perhaps the most extraordinary thing about the spider's spinning is the power of adjusting the thread of silk to the particular necessities of the orb. For example, the thread used in the operation described above was very elastic and appeared as a line of extremely fine beads, quite different from the plain radial.

Loabsters make love to their mates much as do humans, according to an English scientist.

WOLVES ARE HUNTED
Kingston, Ont., Oct. 27.—Wolves are causing heavy losses among the livestock in the northern part of Frontenac County, especially among sheep and calves. So great is the menace to sheep that farmers are faced with either providing protection or disposing of their flocks.

Berlin, Oct. 27.—The Communists who stubbornly fought the Hohenzollern property settlement bill in the Prussian Diet, presented a motion yesterday that the bill should be referred back to the Diet for reconsideration. They took the ground that it had been debated on incomplete and faulty information.

Vancouver Island News

Chemainus Ladysmith

Chemainus, Oct. 27.—The usual monthly meeting of Chemainus Review 19, Women's Benefit Association, was held in the Knights' of Pythias Hall. One new member was initiated. The provincial rally which is to be held in Vancouver on October 28 was discussed, and it was decided to send two delegates from the Review. Arrangements were completed for a silver tea which will be held at the home of Mrs. George McInnes on October 28. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting, and a delightful social hour was spent.

Miss Nellie Thomas has returned home to Chemainus River after spending a few days in Victoria.

Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Jarrett, who have been holidaying in Seattle, have returned home to Chemainus.

The many friends of Mrs. Walter Laidlaw, who has been in Chemainus hospital several weeks, will be glad to hear she has made a good recovery and has returned home.

Mrs. Harry Heslop and her sister, Miss Doris Lawson, have returned to Chemainus after spending a few days in the capital city.

Frank Halhed is spending a few days on Reed Island.

The Rev. E. M. Cook has returned from a hunting trip to Cowichan Lake.

Mrs. Jack Stewart visited relatives in Victoria last week.

Cowichan

Cowichan Station, Oct. 27.—On Thursday, Trafalgar Day was duly celebrated by the annual ball under the auspices of the Sir Clive Phillips-Wolley Chapter of the I.O.O.F. at the C.A.C. hall. The arrangements and decorations, in charge of the Regent, Mrs. J. Read, and Mrs. Lenham, with an able body of helpers and members of the chapter, were most successful. The tasteful coloring of emerald and gold streamers blended with the novel idea of orange trees on the stage, hung with golden fruit, which was most realistic in design. Cecil Heaton's orchestra played inspiring music and the dance went with a swing from start to finish. Last but not least, the excellent supper was, as is usual on this occasion, a great feature, showing much skill and ingenuity in the charge of ladies of the chapter, who also waited on the tables.

LOGGER KILLED AT CENTRAL LAKE CAMP

Port Alberni, Oct. 27.—A fatal accident occurred at the Central Lake Logging Company's operations, when John Evanston was accidentally knocked backwards, and fell on a knot which fractured his skull. He was brought to the West Coast General Hospital, where he was given medical attention by Dr. Morgan, but failed to respond, and died at 7 o'clock Tuesday night.

Mr. Evanston was a native of Norway, about forty-five years of age, and had no relatives in this country.

MARS STUDIED BY MANY ASTRONOMERS

Planet Last Night at Point of Orbit Closest to the Earth

Williams Bay, Wis., Oct. 27.—Mars accorded observers on the earth last night the best close-up view of its mysterious self available in fifteen years.

At 11 o'clock the planet, which for many weeks had been whirling eastward at a rate of half a mile a second, paused in its orbit and began whirling away. For the last five days, as it reached the nadir of the orbit by which astronomers trace it, its speed had been somewhat less than half a mile a second in relation to its approach to the earth and for the next five days its departure will be similarly less. After that its flight again will be measured at the 1800-mile-an-hour rate.

The last close-up view the world got of Mars was in 1924, and the next will be in 1939.

Astronomers could not calculate immediately their deductions from last night's observations. Study of the planet will be continued for several days, until it gets too close to be viewed accurately within the range of astronomical lenses.

Last night the skies were clear and ideal for the study.

Rev. Dr. Endicott Declares Against Liquor System

Saskatoon, Oct. 27.—"We won't live in Canada with drink."

In these words, Rev. Dr. James Endicott, Moderator of the United Church of Canada, summarized that church's attitude on the liquor question in an address to more than 500 delegates attending the world service meeting of the Saskatchewan Conference here yesterday.

Stating union had increased the sense of morality in its members, Dr. Endicott went on to say those who were opposed to the use of liquor were not fanatics but the most clear-minded element in the country.

Discussing immigration, Dr. Endicott stated the United Church was handicapped in its work by a lack of ministers, a statement which prompted Rev. Dr. E. H. Oliver, principal of St. Andrew's College, to call for a new minister from each of the eighteen Saskatchewan Presbyteries to be ready for service by the next conference.

B.C. Presbyterians Elect Moderator

New Westminster, Oct. 27.—Rev. Dr. R. G. Macbeth was elected by acclamation Moderator of the Presbyterian Synod of British Columbia at the opening session of the conference of that body here last night.

The synod met to-day when, following devotional ceremonies, reports were presented.

VERDICT OF ACQUITTAL

Vancouver, Oct. 27.—Charged with being in possession of stolen goods, Ernest Kelly was acquitted at the criminal assizes here yesterday. The jury was out only four minutes.

POLICE ARE HUNTING TOLEDO MURDERER

Two Women Killed This Week; Three Others in Fourteen Months

Toledo, Ohio, Oct. 27.—Special squads of man-hunters organized to solve Toledo's two mysterious woman murders began a thorough search to-day for the slayers of Miss Lily Croft, twenty-six-year-old school teacher, found dead early yesterday and Mrs. Mary Alden, forty-seven, who was slain with two pistol-bullets in her home a few hours later.

The body of Mrs. Alden was found by her husband, who had returned from work in a factory.

The Alden murder differed from the Croft case and the three that had preceded it in fourteen months here. Mrs. Alden was shot to death in her own home about 9 o'clock this morning, officials believe, while the others were attacked in secluded places in the city in the night and clubs or heavy iron instruments were used.

The constabulary men were attempting to arrest three Moros who had recently murdered Otto R. Seifert, a United States citizen. The outlaws took refuge in a fort, which the constabulary stormed.

TROOPS KILLED TWELVE MOROS

Manila, Oct. 27.—Twelve Moros were killed in a fight to-day between men of the Philippine Constabulary and a band of Moro outlaws in Lanaso Province. There were no casualties among the police.

The constabulary men were attempting to arrest three Moros who had recently murdered Otto R. Seifert, a United States citizen. The outlaws took refuge in a fort, which the constabulary stormed.

Geological Survey In Saskatchewan

Regina, Oct. 27.—Plans are now far advanced for a comprehensive geological survey of Saskatchewan with a particular view of developing the latent mineral wealth in northern areas.

Great stores of gasoline and oil have been and are being placed at convenient spots ready to supply two specially constructed seaplanes which will start as early next spring as possible in the making of aerial maps. Already a three-year programme has been mapped out for the plane crews.

In 1927 the fliers will map the country along both banks of the Churchill River and the great area of what is to be the Saskatchewan National Park, north of Prince Albert. In 1928 the fliers will work north of the Churchill and the following year around the Reindeer and Creek country.

The object of the aerial survey will be to pave the way for the geologists, who will work immediately behind the map makers.

Prisoners Had Liquor in Jail

New Glasgow, N.S., Oct. 27.—Prisoners in the local jail were discovered yesterday to have been enjoying for some time the luxury of strong liquor with their meals and between meals whenever they felt thirsty.

A cell had been used for storing seized liquor and the prisoner in the next cell managed to find a weak spot in the wall through which he could put his hand, and he could get the necks of the bottles through, but that sufficed, and he was able to fill the mugs of all the other prisoners down the line of cells.

Extradition of Four Men Asked

Regina, Oct. 27.—Extradition proceedings have been started by the Saskatchewan Attorney-General's Department to have William Gordon, Harry Erickson, Francis Moritz and Leon Berich, now under arrest in Bow Bells, N.D., brought back to Regina to face charges of robbery with violence.

The representative of the department in Chicago was advised by the local police and replied that arrangements for the issuing of the formal warrants were being made.

The four are alleged to have held up Tom Young, restaurant keeper at Portia, last Sunday night and robbed him of $15. When Young refused to open the cash register, one of the bandits opened fire with a revolver and Young suffered a scalp wound, from which he is recovering.

GREATER VANCOUVER ADMINISTRATION VOTE

Vancouver, Oct. 27.—Representatives of the Vancouver city council and of the municipal councils of South Vancouver and Point Grey at a conference yesterday agreed to submit to their respective electorates at the next municipal elections plebiscites on the following questions:

1. Are you in favor of amalgamation?

2. Are you in favor of the county council or metropolitan form of amalgamation, each council to retain charge of its local affairs?

Draft schemes under each heading will be prepared and appended to the ballots.

BAKERY DYNAMITED

Juneau, Oct. 27.—An explosion, declared by police to be of dynamite, wrecked a bakery on the main street here last night and severely damaged a jewelry store. Jewelry was thrown fifty feet and pieces of wood and concrete from the floor of the bakery were blown through its roof. Investigators said the explosives had been placed under the floor of the bakery. The buildings are fifty feet from a theatre in which a police station was held the night before. Police expressed an opinion the detonation had been planned to occur during the meeting.

TRIAL IN SARNIA

Sarnia, Ont., Oct. 27.—Thomas Weston, formerly a clerk in the customs office here, elected trial by a county judge and pleaded not guilty when he appeared at a county criminal court sitting yesterday on a charge of theft of over $6,000 from the Government. Judge Taylor fixed November 22 as the date for the trial and renewed the bail.

Continuance of Strike Regulations Voted in Britain

London, Oct. 27.—The Government's emergency powers in connection with the coal strike throughout Great Britain have been continued by the House of Commons. The vote yesterday for continuance was 185 to 88.

A new movement outside of Parliament just started may possibly lead to fresh negotiations, but Parliament itself has thus far been able to make no progress toward a settlement.

A deputation from the general council of the Trades Union Congress sought and had a private meeting with Premier Baldwin, in which the coal situation was discussed and the deputation will see the miners' leaders and ascertain whether any new approach is possible. In the meantime there is a steady drift of miners back to work.

Property Restored To Owners After War in Morocco

Madrid, Oct. 27.—The Moroccan Government has issued a decree calling for the confiscation of the property of Abd-el-Krim, the former Rifian war-lord, who is now in exile to Reunion Island in the Indian Ocean, and his followers.

The decree specifies that all the cattle and grain Krim seized during his warfare against the French and Spanish forces shall be returned to the former owners.

TWO PERSONS DROWNED

OUR GOOD FORTUNE

DURING THE LAST TEN DAYS THE people of Victoria have been reading of hurricanes, tropical storms, earthquakes and other violent moods of Nature. Some of these disturbances have taken place on this continent; others have been confined to foreign lands farther afield. But through them all this part of Vancouver Island has gone its way serenely. Not all the daylight hours of the last ten days have been brightened by the rays of the sun. A moderate share of moisture has fallen in this locality; but the showers have been of short duration and gentle to a degree. For the rest, the late October sky has been almost cloudless and the temperature very like that of early Summer.

Victoria is fortunate in many ways. It is particularly fortunate in its comparative isolation from those areas on this continent in which the elements indulge in these peculiar and disconcerting pranks. Every year, of course, wisecracks predict unusual climatic vagaries and just as regularly they are proven to be false prophets. In the early part of 1925 the prophecy went forth that there would be practically no Summer at all and that many dreary and comfortless months would be followed by the severest of Winters. It was about the hottest and driest Summer on record for many a year and a bright and cheerful Fall lingered long in the lap of a Winter that never turned up. And so it goes.

Do the people of Victoria realize how well off they are in the matter of weather on the whole? Or do they take it for granted? Where is there another spot on this continent more favored than this neighborhood? It would be difficult to find one. And this is only a little bit of the story of what should be Victoria's good fortune. We have the natural resources as well. With all this in their favor, then, ought it to be such a difficult job for our citizens to work up a little more practical enthusiasm in the interest of their community's economic advancement? Or would they be up and doing with more vigor if Nature were to give this part of Vancouver Island an occasional jolt?

ON THE RIGHT SIDE

THOSE WHO EXPECTED TO SEE CANADA's balance sheet reveal a deficit because of the cuts in taxation should study the brief statement issued at the end of the first half of the present fiscal year at September 30. This shows that revenues have exceeded expenditures by $53,903,920, despite the reductions in income tax, postage, cuts in import duties on motor cars and other relief measures.

Nor should it be forgotten that this Dominion is making such a fine showing in the face of heavy obligations resulting from the war. After all Canada's debt is principally a war debt and the interest on it represents more than one-third of all her expenditures, ordinary and special, for the half-year. The figures for this and other war outlays from April 1 to September 30 follow:

Interest on National Debt	$58,459,773
Pensions	15,749,643
Soldiers' Land Settlement	$29,446
Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment	2,954,713
	$77,783,584

In round figures, war obligations account for more than half of this country's current expenditure. As the years roll by, of course, the annual disbursement under these heads will decrease; but for some time to come the liability will weigh heavily on the shoulders of the Canadian taxpayer.

Incidentally, the payments above noted ought to be studied carefully by all those who scoff at the League of Nations, who do nothing to make it popular with the general public, and who talk about the next war as if it were something to look forward to, as if it were inevitable.

Fortunately these sceptics are decreasing in number as they see the League doing good work and nations themselves actively working for peaceful and economic accord with one another. Neither Canada nor any other country, save, perhaps, the United States, could pay for another war.

LEAVE HIM AT DOORN

IF GERMANY DESIRES TO SAVE HERSELF a lot of internal strife her Government would be wise to leave William Hohenzollern where he is—or at least forbid his return. The Social Democrats who wield considerable political influence in the country are totally opposed to the readmission of the exile of Doorn to his native land. German veterans of the Great War put him in the deserter class when he fled the country in 1918 and they have not changed their opinions about him since that time.

At the best there would sure to be a nasty political rumpus if Hohenzollern should return to Germany. There is some ground, too, that something more serious might happen also. But suggestions that the former Kaiser, once more back home, would lend weight to a revival of the monarchy are too fantastic for consideration. There is about as much chance of turning fifteen million anti-Hohenzollern votes as there is of the Atlantic drying up.

"SEA-SERPENTINIS"

IT HAS REMAINED FOR A YOUNG lady of Peachland to ask the readers of British Columbia newspapers if they have ever heard of a malady known as "sea serpentinis." She is moved to the inquiry by repeated reports that the placid waters of the Okanagan Lake have been disturbed by a creature which by this time ought to be getting used to the name of Ogopego. She describes the malady in the following terms:

Sea serpentinis is acute inflammation of the imagination. It breaks out suddenly in some localities when it becomes epidemic, then clears up just as quickly, only to break out again in another spot hundreds of miles away. It is extremely contagious, but never fatal. It affects the young and old alike, irrespective of sex. Although it has been admitted that the so-called stronger sex are more susceptible to this malady, they have been found to be more glibly, and so make easy victims. This peculiar malady is found in worst form along the Okanagan Lake, but cases are being reported with growing frequency in the Kootenays and Kentucky. Its symptoms are great agitation, and an overwhelming desire to convince disinterested parties of their (patients') truthfulness. Very often a pre-voiced breath is the most prominent feature in one of these attacks. There does not seem to be any cure. Ridicule appears to have no effect on patients of the head, or offers to inspect patient's breath. In isolated cases, the gold cure has been used successfully, but the average patient is too far gone for such treatment.

It will be observed that she despairs of a remedy for the complaint being found. There is nothing unusual about that. People have suffered from "sea serpentinis" for very many years; but there is nothing in the records of the provincial board of health or any other similar organization to suggest that an attack has ever been attended by fatal results. After all, these are the dog days; the general election is over and the disciples of blue ruin have gone to the tall timbers and there is little hope that they will come out again for a few years. Meanwhile the reading public will not be denied.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

HEAVY GRAIN CROPS

From The Argus (Bucharest)

The prospects of this year's harvest in Rumania are exceptionally good. These reports refer to all parts of the country, even to Bessarabia, where for several years past the crops have proved unsatisfactory on account of the drought. It is expected that large volumes of grain will be available for export. In anticipation of the exceptionally heavy transport traffic to be expected as a result of this year's harvest the Government has requested the loan of a large number of trucks and locomotives from the Czechoslovak Railways. The farmers are said to be making a move to keep up prices. If they are successful their action may have a decided influence upon grain exports.

Great Bird of Prey of the Night

By ARTHUR N. PACK

Death in the dark, some call him, for he is the most powerful of our owls. In some form or other he ranges from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and throughout North and South America wherever there are trees.

Even where trees are scarce he may be found, sometimes with his nest on the faces of cliffs. Early in the Spring Bubo and his mate go about their housekeeping, for the young of all the larger birds of prey are in developing, and they must be able to take care of themselves before the winter comes. The eggs, like those of all owls, are white and nearly round. In the studies of food habits which have been made of the birds of prey, the great horned owl is one which seems most inimical to man's interests. The principal catch against him is on the score of catching chickens, and it should be pointed out that this happens mostly in those sections of the country where fowls are forced to seek their own roosting places in the trees.

Here it is an easy matter for our night-flyer to pick a nice, fat pullet from a branch. Examination of stomach contents, however, and of the pellets which are cast up after each meal, show that many other things are eaten, including a variety of wild birds and mammals, some of the latter very injurious to man's interests, and even fish.

World's Fastest Cable

The laying of the world's fastest cable, the nineteenth to span the Atlantic, was completed when 150 workmen of the Western Union Telegraph Company dragged the American end ashore at Hammels, near Rockaway Beach, hauled it far up on the land and buried it in a trench from which it will later be connected up with the company's cable office at 40 Broad Street, New York. Manufactured by the Telegraph Construction and Maintenance Company of Greenwich, England, and sheathed in permalloy, an alloy of iron and nickel developed in the laboratories of the Western Electric Company, which gives it greater speed, the cable will have a sending capacity of 2,500 letters per minute and will be eight times as fast as any other cable between New York and England. Last June the Ss. Colonia began the task of laying the great cable across a stretch of 3,400 nautical miles. Its eastern terminus is at Penance, England, from whence it stretched across the under-seas plateau, valleys and mountain tops of the Atlantic to Bay Roberts, Newfoundland. Then it strikes southward to New York. The crew of the Colonia completed their task when the western end of the big terminal was secured to a score of big cables and these in turn were anchored a short distance off the Rockaway shore. A huge winch on a truck dragged these cables and the cable ashore where the workmen were ready to seize it. The English company which manufactured the new cable is the oldest in the world engaged in that business. It was formed for the purpose of laying the first successful transatlantic cable, which deed was accomplished in 1866.

Do You Mean What You Say?

"IN BORROWED PLUMES"

"IN BORROWED PLUMES"

The above expression is used either literally to mean borrowed finery, or figuratively in referring to assumed merit, applause, or airs and graces which have been acquired, but not honestly won. The allusion is to the fable of the jackdaw which dressed himself up in the peacock's feathers that he might have honor among his neighbor birds, but only gained their scorn for his pains.

Canadian Questions and Answers

CEMENT PRODUCTS

Q. What is the value of cement products in Canada?

A. The value of cement products made in Canada in 1925 totalled $2,020,239, an increase of sixty-one per cent. over 1924 and thirty-four per cent. over 1923. One hundred and ninety-seven plants represent this important industry, mostly in Ontario. Production is, therefore, showing a steady increase which is likely to continue.

ROD AND GUN MAGAZINE

A fishing department with a good aggregation of other sporting articles, seems to feature the November issue of Rod and Gun, which is just published. Two good fiction stories are also included in the aggregation of outdoor reading matter. "McLean of the Hudson's Bay" by William C. Miller and "The Blue Boy" by B. G. Robbins.

"An Eventful Snipe Shooting Trip" is a good yarn of shooting on the tidal flats of the St. Lawrence.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO TO-DAY

The Victoria Daily Times, October 27, 1901.

Dominion Government survey boat Quadra left this morning to make an inspection of the aids to navigation around the island. Mr. Noble, assistant commissioner of lights, and Captain Gaudin, local marine and fisheries agent, were aboard her.

The new telephone cable linking Bellingham and Victoria has just been completed. It was learned to-day. A land line between Friday Harbor and Cascade Lake on Orcas Island is all that remains to be installed before the new system will be in operation.

F. Kernode, curator at the Provincial Museum, has just completed the mounting of a specimen of Stone Mountain's bear, presented to him by Baron Von Plessen, who shot the animal.

GALLI-CURCI SLIM PETITE FIGURE AND VIVID PERSONALITY

Great Artiste Gives Impressions of Victoria, Jazz and Wagner

Once upon a time and not very long ago at that, prima donnas were always of a stature which was perhaps best described as majestic, with a sixth including very much to "emphatic." But a Times representative who interviewed Madame Galli-Curci yesterday at the suite at the Empress Hotel, found that she shattered all the old illusions as to physical proportions, and found her chic, petite, and the essence of the old fallacy that breadth of vocal range and breadth of figure are synonymous.

But though small in stature and of a slenderness which makes one wonder where all her power and dynamic power of her marvelous voice, Madame Galli-Curci radiates a personality so vivid and forceful in its magnetism, so suggestive of the Divine fire, as to make readily understandable her unassailable position in the world of song. Her Italian heritage is in her soft, dark, sparkling eyes, her hair, her sensitive mouth, her glossy black hair, and in her beautiful hands, which by their expressive gestures lend meaning to the most casual remark.

Mme. Galli-Curci expressed the pleasure she felt at her first appearance in this most lovely city. With her husband, Mr. Homer Samuels, a slim, fair-haired young American, she had been for a walk around the Marine Drive, and the beauty of Victoria and its surroundings had filled them with admiration.

The great singer's one regret was that she could only appear here on one night, and that in a limited number. In many places in Canada she has sung in skating rinks. "I love the feeling of space when I sing. In a small theatre, too, I regret the lack of accommodation keeps the prices high. I would love to sing also to those who appreciate music, but alas that is impossible with a theatre," she said.

NOT TOO "HIGH BROW" Her programmes she chooses to suit popular taste, refraining from too much "high brow," as she expressed it with a smile. Although it was raised on music from so high a holding, her hand about two feet from the floor, "I cannot sit through too much Wagner; it is too heavy."

Mme. Galli-Curci said she observed that it was good for dancing and would probably remain in that field of music, but it had no place on the concert stage.

Before starting on her tour on October 8, Madame Galli-Curci and her husband, had been staying at their lovely home in the Catalina Mountains. Here she led a simple country life, golfing and walking and enjoying all the delights of the great outdoors.

But on her trip she has to forego such strenuous exercise as well as the social diversions, for the business of keeping that delicate organ, her throat, in condition is a serious matter. The great artiste deeply regretted her inability to accept the Ladies' Musical Club invitations to a reception, but she had to decline such invitations all through her tour.

However, before taking leave of diva, The Times representative was assured that on the first opportunity that offers Mme. Galli-Curci will return to Victoria to holiday, and to avail themselves of all the social and recreational diversions which this city has to offer them in so varying an abundance.

Rev. J. R. Cameron, formerly on the staff of the Congo Mission, Central Africa, will give an account of his experiences in the heart of St. Anthony's Presbyterian Church at 8 o'clock this evening. As Mr. Cameron was actively engaged in this work for forty years and his experience, date from the time of the explorer, Stanley, whom he met in Africa, his address should prove both interesting and instructive. The meeting is free to the public and there will be no collection. Mr. James Petrie will be the soloist for the evening.

THOUSANDS WILL NOT SECURE VOTE AT DECEMBER TESTS

With only five days left, including to-day, registration of voters at the City Hall looked up a little this morning. Yesterday sixty-one persons registered, with fifty attending to the duty on the previous day. Over 100 registrations are expected to-day. Though City Hall officials have been three weeks appealing for early registration, some 4,000 people have still left their registrations unattended, to trusting to the last minute to secure the inclusion of their names on the civic voters' list. Of the 10,000 registered voters, it is estimated, are those who have paid every tax required and who are "entitled to a vote by merely signing the declaration supplied by the City Hall. A total of 6,000 persons have registered since the first of the month. The final day is Monday next, so that less than five days are open. City Hall, besides normal business hours, keeps open from 7 to 9 o'clock nightly to aid the work of registration. Promptly at 5 p.m. Monday, the registration will close. The association, told of the work of the organization in furthering the interests of manufacturers of the Dominion and of the excellent service given to them.

The association is working for all its members all over the country, and makes an effort to give every manufacturer an equal service, here on the one hand, and the department of the association great help has been given the members, Mr. Walsh said.

The tax department was another which was a material aid. Mr. McCorrick, tax expert, had compiled a pamphlet on the sales tax which had become a text-book for manufacturers all over the Dominion, he said.

EXAMINE LEGISLATION By examining proposed and passed legislation to see if it would affect the interests of the company was one of the great works of the legal department of the association, he stated. This department worked in conjunction with a group of lawyers, he added.

The department of trade and commerce had accomplished great work in the interests of the manufacturers, he said. They had originated the idea of "Produce in Canada" or "Made in Canada," which had since passed out of their hands. They also held nearly 500 Fall Fairs in the Dominion every year, he said, showing the public the wares which were being produced in Canada and thus helping their members still further.

Mr. Walsh expressed his appreciation of the support given the association and the work done by the British Columbia division. Ten years ago there were only seven manufacturers in this division, he said, whereas there are 400 now, showing a great increase in the interest and progress of the division's work.

He also mentioned the advisory board on tariff and taxation, with Hon. J. George Graham as chairman. This is accomplishing fine work in the East, he said, and has dealt with many applications for tariff changes. J. E. Walsh on Inspection Tour Reports Whole Country Now Optimistic

J. E. Walsh, of Toronto, general manager of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, arrived in Victoria to-day on his tour of inspection of business conditions, and gave The Victoria Times the following summary of Canadian conditions:

"Because of the weather, they had severe setbacks on the prairies, but there is now general optimism throughout the West, with grain moving much more freely than a month ago and conditions very much much better than indicated in early crop dispatches."

"Generally throughout Canada conditions are optimistic. Certain lines of industry are very busy. Other lines are now improving rapidly from the setback due to the early crop conditions, which undoubtedly had some effect on general business. The improvement in the crop situation which has followed is overcoming the depressing effect of the early crop reports."

"On the British Columbia coast conditions are exceptionally good. In fact, there seems to be only one drawback to the business offering. So many tramp vessels are now tied up in the business of carrying coal to England."

Mr. Walsh has been meeting the executives of the Prairie and B.C. divisions of the Association. He was accompanied to Victoria by Hugh Dalton, secretary of the Vancouver branch. Here they conferred with Capt. T. J. Goodlake, secretary of the local branch, and Robert E. Webb, and were later guests at a luncheon at the Chamber of Commerce.

MILTON SILLS SEEMS TO HAVE BEEN BORN
UNDER BATTLING STAR

Somehow or other, Milton Sills seems to have been born under a battling star. He really has battled his way through pictures to stardom, for by his screen fighting he has placed himself in the front rank. If not at the head of all screen static battlers.

His first great fight was in "The Spoilers." Since then he has fought, and fought and fought. In the past year he had a terrific screen fight in "The Knockout," another in "The Making of O'Malley," another in "The Unguarded Hour," another in "Men of Steel," one in "Puppets" and now is again seen in a magnificent battle in "Paradise," his latest starring vehicle, which Ray Rockett produced in New York for First National, and which is this week's attraction at the Capitol Theatre. An unusually outstanding cast of players is seen in this picture. Milton Sills, Betty Bronson, Noah Beery, Kate Price, Claude Murray, Lloyd Whitlock, Claude King and Ashley Cooper. What a cast!

SCREEN MASTERPIECE
MAKES STIRRING FILM
AT COLUMBIA THEATRE

Fox Film's epic production, "Three Bad Men," pronounced by many well known educators as one of the finest educational masterpieces of the screen in many years, will have its last showing at the Columbia Theatre to-day.

Reproducing as it does the opening of the Indian lands for white settlement, immediately after the civil war, it is not only a thrilling and accurate picture of those stirring times. The leading roles are played by stars and feature players of note, including Olive Jordan, Geo. O'Brien, Lou Tellegen, Alec Francis, J. Hunt, J. Farrell, MacDonald—and many other well known screen celebrities.

THRILLS AND SUSPENSE
LAUGHTER AND TEARS

Mary Pickford picks her screen vehicles as carefully as a man picks his first automobile. First, the story must be clean and wholesome, entertaining and suited to her talents. It must be interesting to old and young alike. If it fills these requirements and is what is known as good "screen material" she is very likely to accept it. And it is not at all necessary that this type of story may seem in style at the present.

"Sparrows," Miss Pickford's great epic of the Southern swamps, which shows at the Dominion Theatre, is a story totally different from any of her previous vehicles. Yet it combines laughs and tears, thrills and suspense, and it is mighty fine entertainment.

It deals with the adventures of a little band of children on a baby farm. Miss Pickford, of course, is the leader of the band and the thrilling experiences they meet make up the story that holds interest to the end. Comedy is a pronounced feature, too, and Miss Pickford never appeared to better advantage than as the self-sacrificing "Mama Mollie" of "Sparrows."

GEORGE OLSEN SCORES
TRIUMPH AT COLISEUM
IN "CAPTAIN APPLEJACK"

A play of exceptional merit in the unanimous opinion of all Coliseum patrons who have been fortunate enough to witness the current presentation "Captain Applejack." Great credit is due George Olsen, who plays the title role, a very heavy part, magnificent from the transition from a mild-mannered young man of set habits to a boisterous, blustering buccaner, is outstandingly clever, stamping him for all time as versatile genius and an actor par excellence.

Happy Valley

Happy Valley, Oct. 27.—Harvest thanksgiving service was held in the Reformed Episcopal Church at Happy Valley on Sunday last, the preacher being the Rev. Dr. Owen of Victoria. Mrs. D. Riddle officiated at the organ. The church had been prettily decorated with flowers, fruit and vegetables by a committee composed of Mesdames Stockand, Dallimore, Batchelor, Hutchinson, Mr. Taylor and Mr. Field, which decorations were afterwards, at the request of the Rev. Dr. Owen, given to the Reformed Episcopal Church in Victoria for their Harvest Festival, which is to be held on Sunday next. Mr. W. Dallimore undertook to deliver the decorations during the week to Victoria.

Troubled with Lame Back for Over 17 Years

Now feeling fine
as a fiddle

Harry H. Buss of Egmont, B.C., suffered from a lame back for over 17 years. Every spring he was laid up from work. He tried many remedies, but could not obtain relief. He was advised to try Gin Pills and immediately obtained relief. Read his letter:

"There is nothing to compare with Gin Pills. I suffered unaccountably with a lame back for over 17 years. I tried almost everything, but to no purpose. I could not sleep. After taking an at work again and feel fine as a fiddle. I will not be without Gin Pills from now on. I am telling every one in this settlement who has kidney or back trouble to give Gin Pills a trial. Publish my letter as I would like others to know what great relief Gin Pills gave me."

Pains in the back, constant headaches, swollen joints, painful urination, murky urine, brick dust deposits, scanty or too frequent voiding of urine are all symptoms of kidney trouble. Relieve your suffering and ensure a future free from kidney ailments. Get a box of Gin Pills today. 50c. a box. Agents, National Drug & Chemical Co., Canada, Limited, Toronto, Canada.

MOVIE-ANA

Hollywood, Oct. 27.—Here and there about Hollywood: Phyllis Haver and Sally Long without any systems—and with "seams" painted down the backs of their legs with make-up.

Duster Keaton betting on a football game with Douglas Fairbanks, and Eleanor Boardman and King Vidor coming from the Montmartre—they were married just a short time ago... but sooner had not Vidor been forced to wait for his final divorce decree... Jackie Coogan swimming in his own plunge... he wants to film "Huckleberry Finn"—it would make a great picture for Jackie... and would be well received by the public... ditch diggers' their usual job of tearing up a street... streets are torn up here almost before the pavement has had a chance to settle... Conrad Nagel in a new car... a contract... Syd Chaplin and Monte Blue trying to imitate a pair of comedians... Marshall Neilan and his wife... they read high brow literature as a rule... but occasionally supplement it with Ellnor Glyn... the usual crowd running toward the spot where two motorists disputed the right of way... what good does it do to assert your rights if your car is smashed in buying an ice cream soda for his little daughter, Mary... Trizie Prigana looking healthier than ever... Pastry Ruth Miller playing with a dog in the yard... Sally O'Neill vamping a speed cop out of giving her a tag for going slightly more than forty per... Alec Francis and Claude Gillenwater calling the good old days... of fifteen years ago... Ethel Waters hurrying to a studio... she steers clear of contracts... she manages to keep busy most of the time.

Much surprise was expressed in cinema circles over the marriage of Lew Cody and Mabel Normand. Speaking of Lew Cody reminds me of a story. Lew went into a store to buy some avocados. The proprietor recognized him as a movie star, charged him $5 a dozen. Lew got pretty hot under the collar but paid without any protest. As he was leaving the store, he turned and tossed the man another dollar.

"What's this for?" asked the surprised proprietor.

"I just stepped on a grape," returned Lew.

Strange as it may seem, Allyn Warner is one of the best " Jewish" actors on the screen. And he's Irish as a New York cop.

We thought they were stretching things a bit when the movies made a blond out of Colleen Moore. But now Louise Fazenda has become a redhead. What's next?

With all the stars there are in this business of make-believe it hardly seems possible that produce should have difficulty in securing casts for their pictures. But they do. Cecil B. DeMille gave screen tests to more than fifty actresses before he found a girl to play Mary Magdalene. And now Edwin Carewe can't find the leading roles in Tolstoy's "Resurrection."

The story is told of a very "high brow" Hollywood woman who invited an English nobleman as a guest of honor at a dinner party. On the night of the party there were guests in abundance—but no nobleman. The next morning the hostess called the Englishman in as a movie star. He absent, "I wasn't hungry," was his reply.

Rin Tin Tin, famous cinema dog, celebrated his birthday the other day. I am told that he even had a cake with candles on it. Just another proof that it sometimes pays to be famous.

MEXICAN INDIANS
FOUGHT; TWELVE OF THEM WERE KILLED

Mexico City, Oct. 27.—Dispatches from Oaxaca state twelve Indians were killed and twenty-two wounded in a battle between the Indian inhabitants of two rival villages named Ixcintecque and Malacatapac.

The battle was the climax of an ancient feud caused by disputes over land and boundaries. The feeling became so bitter that the villagers armed themselves, marched into neutral ground and fought it out.

YOUR BABY and MINE

By MRS. MEYER ELDRED

Mrs. Eldred will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope forwarded to this office will bring a personal reply.

BUMPS AND FALLS

"Will you please write about babies getting falls and bumps. My baby, one year old, and who is walking, gets so many hard bumps that he always has blue marks on his head. Is there any danger in this, and what can I do?"

ANSWER
It is more than difficult for a mother to see a tiny baby taking what to her seems painful and dangerous falls, when he is intent on the business of learning to walk. But this is one of those natural conditions which cannot be averted or helped. Luckily the baby seldom injures himself in these falls and he does learn by them to be more careful. Living and learning to live is always a more or less difficult job and mothers can't do it for their children. If you are so surrounded by safety devices that by no possible chance can he ever get hurt, he is going to grow up without fear or caution, two things which are far more important to his future safety and lack of which is more harmful to him than these falls are.

Now, put a cloth-dipped-in-rather hot water on the bump and then blot it with a clean, dry towel. Such a procedure will help the circulation and carry away the congested blood which makes the bump turn blue.

Mrs. W. W.:
If you have so much nourishment for the boy that you voluntarily changed from a three-hour to a four-hour schedule, there is no reason at all why you should turn to complementary feedings for added nourishment. Go back to the three-hour schedule, if the baby gained better on that, and stick to the breast milk. The greater the demands of the baby the greater the supply of the mother. Gas in the bowels, as well as little food, as well as too much, you can best judge which condition is operating by the baby's gain in weight.

Please write for leaflet No. 1, which contains a proper diet for the nursing mother. Drinking cornmeal or oatmeal gruel, and taking one quart of milk, in addition to a wholesome meal, should give the mother an adequate diet for this period.

CHINESE ARTIST HERE FROM EAST

Miss Yang Ling Fu to Attend Philadelphia's Exposition; Will Display Work

Dressed in the soft-bloomed silks of the Orient with the rich ornamentation of China, Miss Yang Ling Fu, one of the most prominent artists of her country, arrived in Victoria yesterday afternoon on her way to Philadelphia, where she will attend the Sesqui-Centennial Exposition and display a number of her works.

Chinese art, says Miss Yang, is as old as the mountains of her land, and as beautiful. She has tried to catch the fast fading tints of some of those mountains with her brush, and according to critics she has succeeded. Although Miss Yang is not particularly well-versed in the language of America, she still has sufficient knowledge of it to converse easily. She asserts, however, that she cannot fail to be understood where she is going. Art, she maintains, is a language in itself. Her work will speak for her.

To the layman, Miss Yang's portrait work is something unique, and it has a quality that old Chinese art possesses, of giving the impression that the picture comes straight out of the canvas. It has not the flat quality of Occidental work. It has dimension. It is of a different type. As Miss Yang says, it makes one want to feel it to be sure it is a painting and not a little statuette. That is the quality all the artists of the Orient try to catch and cultivate.

Miss Yang is a close student of the art of the world. She is familiar with the paintings of the great masters, and she makes no comparisons with their work and that of her countrymen of olden times. China's art, in some respects, is just being revived. There was a long lapse of time when her artists were mediocre in the eyes of her people, but they are developing in a different way and will some day take their places with the world's greatest landscape and portrait painters.

"I hope to see much of America's art while I am in this country," said Miss Yang. "If there is inspiration in the beauty of the land, there must be a great art here."

GIRL INVOLVED IN INTERESTING CASE

Supreme Court to Decide if Child Can Choose Between Mother or Foster-parents

Ottawa, Oct. 27.—The Supreme Court heard arguments yesterday in a case in which the question involved was: "Has a fourteen-year-old girl the right to decide whether she will live with her mother or with foster parents whom she prefers?"

The case was an appeal by Dame Mary Marshall of Montreal against A. A. Fournelle, a Quebecer. Seven years ago, when Mrs. Marshall was in straitened circumstances, she entrusted her children to friends. Among the children was a girl seven years old. Recently she re-established a home and tried to have her daughter return, but she declined to leave her foster-parents. Habeas corpus proceedings were instituted against the Fournelles and they were quashed.

SOCIAL PERSONAL WOMEN'S AFFAIRS CLUB AND NEWS

WOMEN CHALLENGED TO STUDY THEIR PUBLIC RESPONSIBILITIES

Miss Gildea in Brilliant Address to Women's Canadian Club Deals With Women's Part as Citizens

"Half of our job as women at the moment is to get rid of our ignorance of the people we put into responsible positions. Half the time we haven't the vaguest notion of whom we are voting for, whether it be in our organizations or through the field of public life right up to Parliament. We may know that he or she is supposed to stand for certain principles, but we don't take the trouble to find out if that same he or she can bring sufficient force of character or preponderance of intellect to stand by those principles, with the result that we get second or third-raters when we might get the best."

WOMEN'S RESPONSIBILITIES

With this pungent comment Miss Gildea challenged the members of the Women's Canadian Club yesterday afternoon to give more serious thought to the responsibilities entailed by citizenship. The speaker, under the caption of "A Simple Woman's Experiences in Public Life in Great Britain," made a brilliant address, punctuated with flashes of humor which served to emphasize the same wisdom of her observations.

Telling her audience that she had been brought up in a home "saturated with public spirit," Miss Gildea observed that while she had taken no share in the suffrage campaign she had always stood strongly for the responsible use of suffrage and all it entailed. This meant not only the mechanical use of the vote at election time, but the assumption of all the responsibilities and understanding of public affairs.

UNPLEASANT DUTIES

Women, she had found, were consistently backward in assuming the unpleasant responsibilities of public life. For instance, as sitting on the magisterial bench and on juries where the case was not of a pleasant character. Women still had to learn to discuss unpleasant things in a professional way. Women in England who saw deeply into this state of affairs felt that the more "uncomfortable" the case might be, the more necessary it was for them to sit on the jury. Our grandmothers might, after all, be right, in maintaining that the place of the woman was in the home; but that home extended beyond the actual walls of the home. And sitting on juries to protect their sister women and children was within the province of this larger home.

Miss Gildea quoted Lady Selborne's appeal made to the women in this connection. She had published a statement to the effect that she had never known women who hesitated to interfere with dirt when it was a question of cleaning up the home, so why hesitate to take a hand in cleaning up the dirt which affected the home in the moral sense?

VALUE OF COMMITTEE WORK

Education for the larger duties of public life could be secured by women in their organizations, the speaker observed. Committee work when conscientiously undertaken as a real and not a perfunctory duty was a valuable education in teaching women the bare bones of business. Women should be taught to work with men on committees and in public life, and to learn that feminine intuition must be backed up by a knowledge of facts. They must be ready to work on an equality with men to do perfectly natural in discussing those questions which are difficult. Miss Gildea believed that a married woman was better placed to work with men on committees and in public life, and to learn that feminine intuition must be backed up by a knowledge of facts. They must be ready to work on an equality with men to do perfectly natural in discussing those questions which are difficult. Miss Gildea believed that a married woman was better placed to work with men on committees and in public life, and to learn that feminine intuition must be backed up by a knowledge of facts. They must be ready to work on an equality with men to do perfectly natural in discussing those questions which are difficult.

She appealed to the women to take their rightful place in public bodies pertaining to education, on the boards of institutions for the care of the subnormal and mentally deranged, where there was tremendous need for a woman's sympathy and understanding.

FEMINIST MOVEMENT ABOMINABLE

But the day was past when women must work by themselves. In the past they had to separate themselves from the men in order to acclimatize themselves to committee and other public work, but they must now be prepared to work side by side with the men in matters of public reform and administration.

"The feminist movement was an abominable thing," Miss Gildea said. The time had come when men and women must go forward together, backing up the younger generation in its march to progress and helping them to understand their responsibilities.

"Just look out that through too much gaiety or carelessness you do not let slip your opportunity to assist in the comity of the state, to hold up the hands of the coming generation in their march of progress, to teach them a love of home and reverence to the God that controls our destinies," she pleaded in conclusion.

Miss Agnew presided, and the soloist of the afternoon was Miss Owen Harper, a brilliant young pupil of Mrs. Gertrude Huntley Green, who contributed two piano solos.

Metchosin, Oct. 27.—Mrs. T. Reid of Salt Spring Island, who has been visiting Mrs. R. D. Young at Metchosin while attending the Women's Institute Conference in Victoria, has returned home.

Mrs. Holden and her daughter, Jean, have left for England where they will spend the winter.

The regular meeting of the Metchosin branch of the W.A. will be held at the home of Mrs. A. B. Taylor on Thursday next at 2.30 p.m. All members are asked to attend and those having "thankoffering" boxes are asked to bring them.

PRESS CLUB WILL PLAY SANTA CLAUS TO TINY CRIPPLES

Guy Fawkes Ball to Raise Fund for Solarium Christmas Fund

Every year the Victoria Press Club will try to make Christmas bright for the young sufferers at the Mill Bay Solarium. It was decided at a recent meeting of the club to arrange the disposition of the profits of the Guy Fawkes Ball to be held November 5 at the Empress Hotel.

Plans were made to establish a Solarium Christmas fund with the object of staging every year the Yuletide festivities at the sunlight home at Mill Bay where the little cripples will fight to regain health. A committee, selected from the members will make frequent visits to the Solarium to study the needs of the tiny patients so that appropriate presents may be offered with special care being taken in the distribution so that some toy suitable for a healthy boy or girl will not be handed out to a little sufferer.

Jolly parties, with wonderful music and entertainment during the Christmas season, loads of candies and provisions beloved of kiddies which can be smuggled past the dietitians and many other plans are under the consideration of the club.

Although the club may not be able to do it this year, it eventually hopes to make a big community presentation for the Solarium, the pleasure of which all the youngsters will share. A motor launch on which the patients will enjoy luxurious cruising on the bay during the Summer will be purchased by the club as soon as sufficient money can be raised.

FORMER VICTORIANS MARRY IN LONDON

Miss Doreen Yates Became Bride of Robin Watt, M.C., October 11

A marriage of much interest to Victorians took place at the Chelsea Parish Church on October 11 when Doreen Yates, only child of the late Henry Yates and Mrs. Yates of Victoria, B.C., was married to Robin Watt, M.C., elder son of the late Alfred Watt and Mrs. Watt, M.B.E. of Buck Hill, Vancouver Island. Both young people are of British Columbia pioneer stock, the grandfathers of each being early members of parliament of the Province, Hugh Watt and James Yates of the Hudson's Bay service, after whom Yates Street, Victoria, is named. On his mother's side, Robin Watt is the grandson of that famous "Red" Henry Robertson of Collingwood, Ont. His mother is equally well known in England and in Canada, especially of late years as founder of the Women's Institutes of England.

The bridegroom had a distinguished career in the war, being mentioned in dispatches, given the Military Cross and Bar and chosen to represent his regiment, the Green Howards, in the Victory March. He was A.D.C. to General Sir Arthur Currie the last year of the war and was wounded four times. Since then he has studied art and has already reaped some well-deserved tributes in the London, Paris, and Canadian Art Press. His Salon portrait of 1924, his Academy portrait of 1925 and his exhibit in the exhibition of the paintings of the regular officers of the army have in honor of the birthday of his little son, Howard. Halloween decorations and games added to the gaiety of the occasion. Those invited were Mrs. Spencer, Gwyneth Thomas, Gloria Wilson, Billy and Anne Ridewood, Ian McPherson, John McCallum, Chubby Troup, Daphne and Diana Ker, Gloria and Gail Greig, Ernest Chadwick, and Kenneth McIntosh.

The wedding was a very quiet one, only immediate relatives and the witnesses being present at the church and afterwards in the Chenil Studios where the health of the newly-married couple was proposed by Col. Badgerow and the good wishes of their native Province conveyed by the Agent-General for British Columbia, Hon. F. A. Pauline. The register was signed by Mrs. Tyrrell Godman, Geoffrey Morel, J. Kerr Lawson, General de Minko and the Viscount Georges de la Vattine.

Shotter-Watt of Bellish, supported his brother. The honeymoon is being spent in Paris.

JACKSON DOCKS TEN HOURS LATE

Admiral Oriental Liner Delayed by Typhoon in Far East—Many Passengers

Ten hours late as the result of being caught in a typhoon while proceeding to Yokohama from Kobe, the Admiral Oriental Liner steamship President Jackson arrived at the Outer Docks yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock from the Far East.

Liners Close Bars In U.S. Waters

New York, Oct. 27.—The New York Times says a complaint by Lady Isabel Howard, wife of the British Ambassador to Washington, has resulted in the sailing of the White Star and Cunard liners as soon as they reach United States territorial waters.

Returning on the Aquitania last May, Lady Howard is quoted as telling some passengers drinking on the way from quarantine to the pier. Sir Esmé Howard communicated with the Cunard Line, who promptly issued instructions that all bars were to be sealed directly when ships arrived in American territorial waters. The White Star and Cunard lines followed the example.

LOVELESS MARRIAGE BASIS OF TRAGEDY OF GILDED YOUTH

Mrs. P. Lydig, Society Leader,
Says Children in Average
Homes Have Best Chance

In Smart Set Families Child's Instinctive Affection and Traits Neglected

New York, Oct. 27.—Mrs. Phillip Lydig, famous as a leader of fashion in society in the second of the sensational social articles that she is writing for The Red Book Magazine, concerns herself in the November number with "The Tragedy of Gilded Youth." In the course of her article she declares that every child of a fashionable and loveless marriage of her knowledge has come to a tragic end, or heads, quite obviously, for one.

In explanation, Mrs. Lydig says: "In the ordinary home, the child is born of a marriage that begins, at least as a marriage of love. Certainly it does not begin as a marriage of ambition, a marriage for money, as the fashionable marriage does so often. And this child of love is nursed by the young mother and fondled by the young father, so that its instinct of affection is normally aroused by the natural objects of an infant's affection, its parents. The average boy grows up loving his mother and imitating his father, who is his ideal. The girl loves her father and makes an ideal for conduct out of her mother."

"In adolescence, their love is transferred to a sweetheart or a beau, and they arrive at marriage subconsciously monogamous," as the psychiatrist puts it. That is to say, the boy goes from one mother to one sweetheart, to one wife. His instinct of affection is set in a pattern of loyalty. The same thing is commonly true of the girl. Or, at least, in the average home, there is a fair chance of its being true.

"There is very little chance of its being true in the fashionable home. The marriage, to begin with, is not so often a marriage of love, and the child is almost invariably given to a nurse and not fed by the mother. Neither the mother nor the father have much time to spend in the nursery. Their traditions do not send them there. They regard a preoccupation with children as a bourgeois trait. The child's dumb, instinctive affection is first fixed on a nurse who generally leaves it as soon as it is weaned, and after the first nurse, there is a succession of nursemaids and governesses, whom the child soon learns are not its equals. Its instinct of affection is confused and thwarted, 'badly conditioned' as the psychologists say, or unconsciously trained to respond to a 'servile image.' That may be why the rich girl so often elopes with a chauffeur, as one psychiatrist points out, and why the millionaire's son so often marries a chorus girl. It certainly seems to me to explain why the sons and daughters of the fashionable rich are so much less likely to be monogamous than the young men and women who have grown up in the common home.

"I should consider as typical of the children of these loveless marriages, a wretched boy whom I shall call Haviland. His mother, a beautiful girl in her teens, was practically sold by an ambitious mother to one of the richest and most dissolute men in New York, some twenty years ago. By the time the boy was born, she hated her husband so bitterly that she could not endure the sight of the child. He was brought up wholly by servants, and when he was still very small, a divorce gave him to his father, who proceeded to teach him that his mother had been a bad woman whom he ought to despise. When I knew him first, at fifteen, he seemed without an ideal, coolly immoral and irresponsible, convinced that he could do anything he pleased and escape punishment because of his wealth—a really bold little villain."

"I undertook to teach him that he must not drive his automobile at full speed out of his father's gateway into the road, at the risk of running down any of us who were passing; and with the aid of a friendly policeman and an independent judge, I had him so threatened and frightened that he learned to be careful. But soon after he seduced cold-bloodedly the young daughter of one of my servants, and when her father appealed to me for help, the boy just eyed me cynically, as unabashed as some little animal without remorse and without imagination, asking only: 'How much does she want?' His father settled the case for ten thousand dollars, and the next time I met the boy, he looked at me differently as if he had never seen me before in his life."

"He has great physical courage, which he inherits from his father. He exercises, never dissipates, and takes great care of himself, also in imitation of his father, who was a maniac about physical culture. Like his father, too, he is miserly to the point of not paying his debts unless he is sued for them, and he is as sharp in his business dealings as a young pickpocket. Although he succeeded to a huge estate on his father's death, he has no friends and no intimate companions except garage-mechanics, who perhaps admire him for his expert knowledge of explosion engines. He has recently become engaged to a very sweet and simple girl who has persuaded herself that he is a misunderstood and ill-treated character. He will undoubtedly ruin her life with cruelty. He is as dangerous to society as a maniac, being wholly without imagination for the sufferings of others, devoid of any generous or sympathetic emotion, and as powerful through his wealth as if he owned a magic ring and a genie to do his bidding. He is, as I see him, entirely the product of a loveless marriage and a home in which there was no affection. He was never moved by any emotions except those of fear and self-interest in his formative years, and he never will be now."

"The other stories that Mrs. Lydig tells in her article are no less significant. Nor does she confine herself to the sons of rich and fashionable parents, but to the daughters as well; and in each case she cites, save one, tragedy was the end. Mrs. Lydig is thus prompted to conclude as follows:

"To sum it all up, I find, in my experience, that in fashionable life the marriage without love makes a home without affection, and out of that home there come only stupid or unhappy children. The stupid ones grow up selfish and cruel, without any sympathetic imagination, and with no loyalty in their love, which is commonly only a sex impulse that lacks tenderness. The unhappy ones either kill themselves in the melancholy of their starved affections during adolescence, or they become wild and dissolute in their revolt against unhappiness, and destroy themselves with dissipation."

High School Teams Open Campaign For Island Rugby Title

Oak Bay and Victoria Meet on Friday in First Game of Thomson Cup Series

Keen Exciting Game Expected at High School Grounds; Both Teams Strong

Ancient rivals will start fighting for the Vancouver Island high school rugby championship, and the honor of meeting the mainland victors for the Thomson Cup, emblematic of the B.C. championship, on Friday afternoon. The Victoria and Oak Bay high school rugby fifteens will clash for the first time this season at the grounds of the former institution. Both teams are confident and the kick-off will be at 3:30 o'clock.

With well drilled squads ready for the gruelling encounter, the teams should provide one of the most thrilling and colorful rugby contests of the season. Victoria, present holders of the Thomson Cup, having taken this trophy from the Vancouver champions last year for the first time in a decade, were admittedly, last year, one of the greatest high school fifteens which had ever played in British Columbia. This year, according to Coach Harry Smith, the champions are equally as strong.

Oak Bay has a line, however, which has struck with a resounding challenge in the Victoria camp. Oak Bay has shown its strength in a match with Victoria which ended in a draw, but recently and suffered a decisive defeat. Victoria will have its best men out on Friday.

EXPERIENCED PLAYERS

The Oak Bay squad contains about half of last year's senior players. Charlie Rutman, who will captain the lads in green, played in the games of last year and showed his speed and effective tackling as a back. His team this season look to him to lead them to victory. Hayward and the Cleveland brothers are also in the back division and expect to play a part in Friday's game. In the forward line King, Harrison, Jones and Knight shine out as leaders of the pack and are formidable players.

The Victoria High team skippered by "Larry" Kennedy, veteran of many of last year's Thomson Cup games and full-back of this year's squad, leads a pack of comparatively new boys, although Turgoose, Le Marquand, Smith and Cudlip form the three line. All of these players are fast and can be depended on to bring their man down. Potting, White, Warnock, Dawson, Murgford, Temple, Baker and Potts comprise the scrum. Warnock, Dawson and Potter will do a lot of the heavy work. Beck and Shaw, the halves, will need to be quick to get the ball from their reliable scrum, as the latter can be depended upon to heel it out a fair part of the time, at least.

The line-ups for the teams will be as follows:

Oak Bay—Omer; Hayward, H. Cleveland, C. Cleveland, Rutman, Pott, Robinson; King, Harrison, Murgford, Jones, Stubberd, Knight, Macdonald and Young.

Victoria High School—Kennedy; Turgoose, Smith, Le Marquand, Pott; Shaw, Beck; Potts, Temple and Murgford.

Edmonton Grads Have Close Call But Win Over Detroit Girls

Edmonton, Oct. 27.—The Grads, world champions' girls' basketball team, had one of the greatest games and closest calls of their long career here last night when the Detroit Nationals held them to a 30-21 score in the first of a two-game series. Play was exciting and thrilling all the way, and the result of the series appeared to be very much in doubt. Up till last night the Detroiters had a record of 103 straight victories, and their run of successes did not go by the board until after a desperate struggle.

Did you know that the new series of automobile sells in Victoria for $2,185?

Officials Off to Bring Allan Cup Games to Coast

Vancouver, Oct. 27.—With a view to securing Allan Cup games for this city next Spring, Art Dingman of Vancouver and L. Tweedie, of Victoria, vice-president and secretary, respectively, leave this evening for Port Arthur, where the annual meeting of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association will be held. Dingman believes that in view of the big crowds which attended play games here last Spring that this city stands an excellent chance of receiving recognition.

Junior Hockey To Be Aided As Well As Senior Circuit

Local Amateur League, Looking Into Future, to Bring on Young Players

J. J. Hickey, Manager of Port Arthur Champs, Now Resides in This City

While amateur hockey is expected to thrive here this Winter the Victoria Amateur Ice Hockey League proposes to devise ways and means of bringing along the juniors and making sure of material for the future senior teams.

At a meeting of the local league held last evening there was a round-table discussion over the prospects for the coming season and high hopes were expressed for a bumper harvest.

The league took no action other than to appoint a committee consisting of President George Warren and Bill McAllister to wait upon the management of the Arena and arrange what terms could be arranged for the season ahead. They will report to the annual meeting of the league to be held next Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock at the Chamber of Commerce.

A GREAT CHANCE

As there will be no professional hockey here this Winter the amateurs will have their own way. They have a great opening and the officials are anxious to capitalize it. There is a chance to form an inter-city league with Portland, Vancouver and Victoria interested. In the past years it has been the custom for players on teams in the Sunday School Basketball League to also play on teams in the city league, and as a result a confusion of schedules often made the postponement of games necessary. Under the B.C.A.A. rules this will not be allowed, and players will only be able to play in one league, not both. There will be one big advantage in the affiliation of the two leagues, this being that the play-off for the provincial title will include champions of both leagues.

GOOD MAN IN TOWN

J. J. Hickey, the new superintendent of the C.P.R. telegraph, who has just arrived here, is a big man in amateur ice hockey circles. For four years he managed the Port Arthur team, which has held the Allan Cup for the past two years, and knows the game from both ends. An effort will be made to interest Mr. Hickey in the game here and he may be asked to take charge of the inter-city team, if one is formed.

HORSE RACING

New York, Oct. 27.—Light View, with Maiben up, made a runaway race of the Fordham claiming stake for three-year-olds and up, chief attraction at Empire yesterday. Light View rushed past Salta at the five-eighths pole and widened his lead with every stride, winning by six lengths. Salta outclassed a winner for the first time in his career, covering the mile and seventy yards journey in 1:46 and earned $2,430 for his owner, Robert Odum. King Jimmy, the favorite, failed to show any speed.

Silver Snow outgamed Norwester in the $2,000 Redwood handicap for all ages at Laurel, catching the leader at the stretch and winning by a mile and seventy yards journey in 1:46 and earned $2,430 for his owner, Robert Odum. King Jimmy, the favorite, failed to show any speed.

The third race, a claiming sprint of six furlongs for two-year-olds, and returned $41,600 for each $12 investment in the pari-mutuel. Woodcock was second and Olive Dexter third.

Victoria Ladies to Hold Annual Meeting
The annual general meeting of the ladies of the Victoria Golf Club, for the election of officers and other business, will be held at the clubhouse at 5 p.m. on Friday.

Outlook For City Hoop League Grows Bright and Rosy

Accommodation Difficulties Practically Cleared Away at Meeting Last Night

Meeting Next Tuesday Will Elect Officers; Plenty of Players Ready

Members of the City and District Basketball League who attended the annual meeting at the Y.M.C.A. last night with mournful faces, thinking that the league would not operate this year owing to big obstacles, came away from the building with smiling faces and the knowledge that the prospects were for a bumper year. Discussion of the two difficulties, facing the league, did not get as far as the election of officers. The meeting was adjourned until next Tuesday, when final plans for the operation of the league this season will be made.

The greatest question now facing the league is that of floor space for the games. Although it was ascertained last night that the league will have at least two gymnasiums available for play, the officials still hope to be able to secure the Armories, used by the league last year, but refused this year on the grounds that there is not a large enough representation of those in the league connected with military organizations. It is the opinion of the league officials that there are a number of players among the teams who have been or are joined with the militia, and any such players are requested to get in touch with President Art Hole or Secretary Gordon Woodridge at once. The league have been offered the use of the Y.M.C.A. for one night a week and of the Centennial United gymnasium two or three nights weekly, but it is the hope of the league that they will be able to get all their games on one floor to save transferring back and forth for games two or three times a week.

APPLICATION

The question of affiliation with the B.C.A.A. was more or less threshed out last night, and it was the general feeling of the meeting that the league would affiliate. In past years it has been the custom for players on teams in the Sunday School Basketball League to also play on teams in the city league, and as a result a confusion of schedules often made the postponement of games necessary. Under the B.C.A.A. rules this will not be allowed, and players will only be able to play in one league, not both. There will be one big advantage in the affiliation of the two leagues, this being that the play-off for the provincial title will include champions of both leagues.

Prospects for membership in the league this season are exceedingly bright. Although the affiliation rule will necessarily cause a number of Sunday School teams to drop out, their places will be taken by new squads, which have loomed on the horizon. The Forresters, James Island and Fulford Harbor have promised to enter teams this year and the Sons of St. John's Church are expected to enter a team. In the Sunday School team, practically all last year's squads will enter competition, and a bigger and better season all round is predicted by the league heads.

MEETING NEXT TUESDAY

All teams intending to enter are asked to have delegates on hand at the adjourned annual meeting, which will be held next Tuesday night at the Y.M.C.A., commencing at 8 o'clock. Managers of teams should also communicate with the president or secretary before the meeting.

Great Interest is Taken in Ladies' Swimming Classes

In order to avoid congestion and to get the most out of the instruction periods, all ladies attending the instruction classes of the Y.M.C.A. are asked to adhere to the following schedule:

6:30 p.m. to 7 p.m.—For Non-swimmers or those who swim a few strokes.

7:00 p.m. to 7:30 p.m.—For those who swim fair and wish to learn other strokes.

7:30 p.m. to 8 p.m.—For advanced coaching in speed swimming and diving.

It does not mean that the swimmers must leave the water when their half hour is up, but simply that instruction will be stressed in those specific periods to insure the best results.

These classes are held every Wednesday night in the Y.M.C.A. pool and are attracting a large number of ladies.

CHAMP HELD TO A DRAW
Los Angeles, Oct. 27.—Fidel La Barba, flyweight champion, and Young Nationalista, Filipino boxer, went through the ten rounds to a draw last night, a decision which was unpopular with some of the ringiders. La Barba's title was not at stake both coming into the ring over the weight limit.

WON BY A TECHNICAL K.O.
Portland, Oct. 27.—Holly Seames, New York lightweight, scored a technical knockout over Billy McCann, Cleveland, in the fourth round of a scheduled ten-round bout here last night.

Pictorial Golf Instruction THE DECLINE OF BACKSPIN

By H. B. MARTIN

When the ribbed clubs were barred by the Golf Association golfers lost ninety per cent. of their back spin. In order to make a ball stick on the green now it must be pitched high into the air and then one is not always sure as to a certain amount of over spin is bound to go with this shot, especially with players who do not know to which will serve to help the pitch shot. It is on the order of the malleable nickel but it is laid back a lot more. Golfers who have been using this club in the South this Winter have found it useful for the purpose and it appears as if it had come to stay.

Corinthians and Gleaners Capture Intermediate Games

Close Scores in S.S. Basketball Games Last Night; Mid-gets Beat Mets

Scores in last night's Sunday School League basketball games played at the Memorial Hall were as follows:

Intermediate "B" boys—Corinthians 16, Canucks 11.

Intermediate girls—Gleaners 10, First Baptist 6.

Junior boys—Midgets 25, Mets 14.

Livesey's fine work was one of the main reasons for the victory of the Corinthians of St. John's Church in the intermediate boys' game.

The Forresters, James Island and Fulford Harbor have promised to enter teams this year and the Sons of St. John's Church are expected to enter a team.

In the Sunday School team, practically all last year's squads will enter competition, and a bigger and better season all round is predicted by the league heads.

MEETING NEXT TUESDAY
All teams intending to enter are asked to have delegates on hand at the adjourned annual meeting, which will be held next Tuesday night at the Y.M.C.A., commencing at 8 o'clock.

Managers of teams should also communicate with the president or secretary before the meeting.

THE TEAMS WERE:
Corinthians—Ward, Cotton, Owen, Phillip and Livesey.

Canucks—Squires, Rogers, Sturrock, Craig and Maddaford.

CLOSE CHECKING
The intermediate girls' game was a close-checking affair with little opportunity for scoring. The winners held a slight edge throughout, but had difficulty in holding the spray First Baptist girls down at times.

THE TEAMS WERE:
Gleaners (Centennial)—M. Harris, D. Harris, Haines, Rich, Couch and Ede.

FIRST BAPTIST: Elliott, M. Andrews, H. Andrews, Linnell and Middleton.

A RUNAWAY
The Midgets ran away from the Mets in the junior affair. At half time they had piled up a score of twenty points to eight. Their superior combination was always too good for the slim youngsters on the Mets squad. Robertson was high scorer for the winners and Caddell for the losers.

THE TEAMS WERE:
Midgets—Menzius, Patrick, Robertson, MacMurchie, Bunell and Etape.

METS—Johnson, Whitlaw, Cadell, Stevenson, Montague, Yeadon and Hall.

The scheduled senior men's game was not played owing to the fact that neither James Bay nor the On-ways could field a team to meet the First United. An exhibition game played between pick-up teams resulted in a win for John Foubister's squad.

Tunney vs. Sharkey Ballyhoo Will Come Next, States Evans

Jack Has Licked Wills so Fans Can Expect Boosting of Tunney Bout Soon

Diet Plays Important Part in Strategy of Grid Game; Failure of George Sisler

By BILLY EVANS

Now that Jack Sharkey has disposed of Harry Wills, we may shortly expect the big ballyhoo for a Tunney-Sharkey bout.

Such a meeting would bring together two fighters differing widely as to the use of the king's English.

Any reporter interviewing Tunney has failed to say that the champion makes him look up at least three new words. Rumor has it that Tunney developed his vocabulary pondering over crossword puzzles with a dictionary close at hand.

Sharkey, on the other hand, is very fond of descriptive adjectives, with a preference for the profane rather than the elevating. He curses beautifully.

When asked to speak a few words to radio listeners, just before the start of the Wills bout, he is reported to have spoken thus:

"Hello, folks! Sorry I must say goodby, but I have an engagement to knock 'em out of Harry Wills and I don't want to disappoint him."

The strategy of the gridiron has gone beyond the mere playing of the game.

Proper diet apparently has its place. The Hobart College eleven of Geneva, N.Y., is being fed sauerkraut and its brine.

Sauerkraut is rich in lime, potash and phosphorus, also iron and calcium, bone building substances.

What more could a football player want?

Battle Creek College is experimenting with milk as the best food for football players. Mr. Kellogg, who has done much to make Battle Creek famous, has prescribed the milk diet for the athletes.

Sauerkraut or milk? Take your choice.

Recently the Chicago University team marched on the field, modestly with milk as the best food for football players. Mr. Kellogg, who has done much to make Battle Creek famous, has prescribed the milk diet for the athletes.

Food and song for the athletes appear to have displaced the theories of psychology and zero hour talks by the coach.

What is the strenuous pastime coming to?

SISLER'S FAILURE
George Sisler, baseball's greatest first baseman, has been removed as manager of the St. Louis Browns.

Sisler, despite an eye ailment that kept him out of the game for a year, is still a great player. He should not take his failure as a manager too seriously.

Only a few star ball players make great managers.

I would say Sisler's greatest fault as a manager was his inability to mix with his players.

Personal contact and close association make for a working bond that rounds out a winning team.

Sisler knows his baseball. He simply lacked managerial temperament.

Donie Bush, former Detroit star, who managed with success the Indianapolis club of the American Association, and is now to handle the Pittsburgh Pirates, has been named manager of the St. Paul team.

Therefore, getting the gate from an umpire is nothing out of the ordinary.

However, he hands the palm to Umpire Magerkurth of the American Association, for sending him on his way in a somewhat different manner.

According to Bush, as he rushed to the plate to dispute a decision, Magerkurth ignoring him entirely, turned to the grandstand and said: "Manager Bush will now broadcast, then gracefully retire to the showers."

All of which he did.

Victoria City Club To Meet To-morrow

A meeting of the executive, players and members of the Victoria City Football Club will be held in the Army and Navy Veterans' clubrooms to-morrow at 8 p.m.

As many adherents of the club can possibly attend are asked to be on hand, as matters pertaining to the future of the club will be discussed.

The Victoria City eleven travel to Vancouver this week to meet the Varsity in a Pacific Coast League fixture.

Foley Meets Champ In Montreal Again
Montreal, Oct. 27.—Leo (Kid) Roy, featherweight champion of Canada, and Vic Foley, of Vancouver, will meet here to-morrow night for the second time in a week in a 12-round title bout. The last time these two met the bout was called a draw after ten rounds.

AINS THE DECISION
Seattle, Oct. 27.—Before a large crowd "Wild Cat" Carter, negro featherweight of Everett, outboxed and outslugged Tommy O'Brien, Portland, to win a six-round decision in the main event of a boxing programme here last night.

Walter Cleghorn, middleweight, Anchorage, Alaska, won a four-round decision from Joe Wilson, negro, Vancouver, B.C.

Mainland Amateurs Going to Detroit For Hockey Tryout

Vancouver, Oct. 27.—Eric Broline, a member of the Towns team, British Columbia amateur champions, and Jack Clark, a member of last year's Nationals in the Vancouver Amateur League, have been offered a trial with the Detroit Club of the National Hockey League by Art Duncan, playing manager, and will leave for the East next Saturday.

Dempsey May Never Don Padded Gloves Again, Says Rickard

Old Champ Has so Much Money and Ring Area Has Not Old Appeal For Him

New York, Oct. 27.—Tex Rickard died today that he had signed Jack Dempsey to a contract for a bout with Gene Tunney, the ex-champion who stripped Dempsey of his title in the first round.

He has so much money that the same may not have the old appeal to him," the promoter explained. "Unless he is enthusiastic or at least interested in his work, it would do Dempsey more harm than good to return to the ring."

"I have no intention right now of sending Dempsey into the ring against Tunney in the first round."

Dempsey will go through one or two trials before tackling another bout for the title for the double purpose of assuring himself and the public as to his fighting form and condition.

Rickard's Scheme Again In Conflict With Boxing Heads

N.Y. Commission Says Tunney Must Meet Sharkey Within Six Months

New York, Oct. 27.—Tex Rickard's plans for a heavyweight championship fight next September once more have come into conflict with the rules of the New York State Athletic Commission.

James A. Farley, chairman of the board, whose support of the challenge of Harry Wills led to the shifting of the Dempsey-Tunney battle to Philadelphia, yesterday said the six-month period within which the champions are required by the New York regulations to defend their crowns, would apply to Tunney and all other titleholders.

To comply with this rule, Gene would have to sign for a championship match before next April. Thus far there is only one application for a title fight before the commission. This came from Jack Sharkey of Boston, who recently won decisively over Wills.

RICKARD PLANS
Rickard considers Dempsey as "Tunney's logical rival." He has announced his plans to continue an elimination heavyweight series at the Garden, with Paulino, Pearson, Maloney, Sharkey and Delaney to fight it out. He then proposes to pit the winner against Dempsey in an early outdoor fight, with the survivor to battle Tunney next September.

REFEREES
Without in any way detracting from the merits of others, it was treated to see Dave Swan with a whistle. In the first place he was in shorts and shirt-sleeves, so we expected action, and we got it. He tore the shirt of one player on the field, and was at times the most active of all the twenty-three men, which is as it should be, and it is to be hoped that some day he will follow Dave's example.

Some spectators complained that there was too much whistle. Nothing of the sort. Swan certainly did check up a lot of things that other referees would have let slide, things that in the past have often caused unpleasant incidents. The results was a perfectly clean game and no trouble on either side.

A TREAT IN STORE
A great treat is in store for us on Thanksgiving Day if the business students stick up against the pick of the Saturday League, for though we may be confident of being able to hold our own, we know that we shall be severely tested, and a great game will be staged.

The Wednesday players are providing plenty of action just now, and though, unfortunately, a Saturday sideline cannot get away to see the storekeepers and others play, we have vivid recollections of the Wednesday team. Knocking Equilmait out of the Jackson Cup a few years ago, and this past Summer, Wednesday players twice showed their prowess against our rep team which was preparing to receive the Englishmen.

What a pity that the organizer of the city team have not been able to reach their objective; hopes were raised when they won a victory on October 16, but their showing last Sunday was a disappointment. A really representative team from Victoria could do if such a team could be fielded on the Coast League. It is to be hoped that the city will receive more support from the prominent players of other clubs. Until this comes about we are creating a false impression abroad of the standard of Victoria football.

BOND FOUR CLAIMS FOR $400,000

Stewart, B.C., Oct. 27.—J. F. Tener has just completed an important amalgamation of mining interests at Alice Arm. The four properties were bonded by Col. Victor Spencer and associates of Vancouver and development work is starting immediately.

The properties involved are the Vanguard, Homestake, Red Point and Copper Cliff. They lie in what is known among local prospectors as the copper formation, which extends from the Red Point on Evidon Creek to the Kitsuut Glacier. The chief minerals are copper and gold, and the ore on some of the properties also carries lead, zinc and silver.

The bonding price is in the neighborhood of $400,000 with terms running over three years.

Col. Spencer is prepared to spend at least $100,000 on development work. Preparations have been made to commence driving a tunnel at once on the Vanguard. Work on this tunnel will be carried on throughout the winter, and a tunnel will also be driven this winter on the Red Point. Work will be done by hand drilling until next spring, when machinery will be installed and development prosecuted on all properties.

Development work will be carried on with all possible speed during the next three years, when a concentrating mill of the necessary capacity will be installed.

In addition to the above mentioned properties, Col. Spencer has an option on the Dolly Varden and Wolf mines, but at the present time no plans have been made for their future development.

The deal was made by J. F. Tener, who arrived in Alice Arm from Vancouver on September 23. Mr. Tener made an examination of the upper Kitsuut country in the summer of 1925. During the past summer he returned, and in company with Dr. Slocum of Pittsburgh made a still more thorough examination, extending over a month.

Negotiations are under way for the bonding of additional properties and some surprises may be sprung in the near future.

RENTS SHOW DROP IN UNITED STATES CITIES DURING YEAR

Los Angeles Has Decline of 50 Per Cent Since 1925; New York Also Lower

But Price of Accommodation Is Still 86 Per Cent Higher Than Before War

New York, Oct. 27.—Rents in the United States have steadily declined since July, 1924, when they reached their peak, and in August of the current year were nearly six per cent lower than in July, 1924, more than two per cent lower than in August, 1925, and more than one per cent lower than last January, according to reports from 171 cities throughout the country to the National Industries Conference Board, 247 Park Avenue, New York. These figures are based on quotations on small houses and apartments such as are occupied by wage earners and other families of moderate means and represent an average for the country as a whole. They take into account rents in large as well as small cities in the various sections but, being national averages, do not necessarily apply to any one specific locality.

That the downward movement since August a year ago has been at a much slower rate than during the previous twelve months is indicated by the fact that rents on the average declined only a little more than two per cent from August, 1925, to August, 1926, while there was an average decrease of nearly four per cent from July, 1924, to August, 1925. The average rents as of August of this year were seventy-five per cent higher than in July, 1914, while rents at their peak in July, 1924, were eighty-six per cent higher than at the outbreak of the World War.

DECLINE IN LARGE CITIES

Out of 171 cities reporting to the Conference Board, rents during the twelve months ending with August of this year were stable in seventy-nine cities, declined in seventy-nine other cities, while increases were noted in thirteen localities. In the eastern section of the country, thirty-three cities out of sixty-one covered by the investigation reported no change, twenty-six reported slight decreases and only two cities small increases not exceeding ten per cent. In the Middle West thirty-four out of eighty-eight cities showed no change, forty-four reported lower rents and in ten cities out of eighty-eight there were small increases. In the South rents were stable in twelve out of twenty-nine cities reporting; they were lower in nine cities, and only one city reported a slight increase during the year.

Rents since July, 1925, have declined somewhat in all but two of the twelve largest cities, the two exceptions being Baltimore and Philadelphia, where rental values remained stable throughout the year ended July, 1926. They were lower in Buffalo, Boston, Chicago, Cleveland, Los Angeles, New York, Pittsburgh, Detroit, St. Louis and San Francisco. Los Angeles, which up to July, 1925, had experienced the greatest net increase in rents over the pre-war period, experienced a decline of fifty per cent between August, 1925 and August, 1926, rents there on the average being now only about eighty-five per cent higher than before the war. Of the larger cities, Minneapolis shows the least increase in rents since 1914, rents there being between twenty-one and thirty per cent higher than before the war. Other large cities showing only moderate increase in rents since pre-war days are Kansas City, Mo., Indianapolis and Seattle where the average rental values range between thirty-one and forty per cent above the 1914 level.

Bethlehem, Pa., reports that despite unusual building activity there is a scarcity of houses for rent and that houses for sale merely meet the demand.

NASHVILLE UNUSUAL PLACE

In Nashville, Tenn., rents are practically at the same level as in July, 1914, just before the World War began. The following table gives rental values as compared with the 1914 level, in cities where rents are either above or below the present average level.

Rents as of August, 1926, were below the 1914 level in Davenport, Iowa (between eleven and twenty per cent below 1914); Wichita, Kans. (less than ten per cent below 1914); Bay City, Mich. (less than ten per cent below 1914); Miles City, Mont. (between eleven and twenty per cent below 1914); Roanoke, Va. (between twenty-one and thirty per cent below 1914); Butte, Mont. (between thirty-one and forty per cent below 1914); Billings, Mont. (between thirty-one and forty per cent below 1914).

Rents in the following cities were less than twenty per cent higher than in 1914. St. Paul, Minn.; Duluth, Minn.; Fort Wayne, Tex.; Lincoln, Neb.; Tulsa, Okla.; Sioux Falls, S.D.; Springfield, Ohio; Alliance, Ohio; Superior, Wis.; Bridgeport, Conn.; Lansing, Mich.; Houston, Tex.; Portsmouth, Va.; Charleston, S.C.; El Paso, Tex.; and Mobile, Ala. Rents higher than the present average for the country as a whole prevailed in Johnstown, Pa. (between 171 and 180 per cent above 1914 level); Kenosha, Wis. (between 171 and 180 per cent above 1914 level); Louisville, Ky. (between 131 and 140 per cent above 1914); Camden, N.J. (between 131 and 140 per cent above 1914); Perth Amboy, N.J. (between 131 and 140 per cent above 1914); Ann Arbor, Mich. (between 131 and 140 per cent above 1914).

Pender Island

Pender Island, Oct. 27.—Miss Ruth Hoffman of Victoria and Miss Myrtle Malcolm of Saanichton, have returned to their homes after visiting at Mrs. Brackett's, Browning Harbor.

Mrs. Alex. Hamilton has been visiting friends and relatives in Victoria and Vancouver during the past week.

Miss Irene Harris came over from Saturna for the week-end.

Capt. Alex. Brackett and George Taylor were home to Browning Harbor for a few days last week. They left again on Tuesday for Union Bay and Comox, where they will operate their gas-tug "Joker B" during the winter months.

Last week's meeting of the Young People's Society was held at the Manse. The president, Mr. Basil Phelps, gave an interesting talk on "Radio."

Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Simpson and Mr. William Cundy, formerly of Portland Island, but who have been occupying the Alamo property at Port Harbor for the past year, expect to leave the island this week for their new home at Retreat Cove, Galliano. Mr. Peter Hoffman, an old-time resident and octogenarian, is accompanying them at their kindly invitation.

A new telephone line is being run from Otter Bay to Port Washington. The present cable, which runs from Beaver Point to Mount Point, will be transferred to Otter Bay, thus eliminating the long stretch of line through the bush from Browning Harbor to Mount Point, and will lessen the upkeep during the stormy months.

The Parent-Teacher Association held its regular meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Corbett last Thursday evening, and gained fresh impetus and inspiration from the excellent attendance and increased interest shown. Many plans were made for the ensuing year, chief among them being the provision of sports equipment for the forty-six pupils now attending school. A committee composed of Miss J. Small and Messrs. S. P. Corbett and V. W. Menzies, was appointed to undertake this important task. It was unanimously agreed to increase the fee from twenty-five to fifty cents per year, and an attempt will be made to secure a speaker for the November meeting. After a short social period the meeting closed with the National Anthem and a vote of thanks to the host and hostess.

A fine specimen of bald-headed eagle was shot this week by Mr. H. Phelps. From tip to tip of the spread wings the measurement was six feet, one of the largest seen here for many years.

Shirley

Shirley, Oct. 27.—The pupils of Shirley School have organized a branch of the Junior Red Cross, and have chosen the name "Shirley Samaritans." They are putting on a Halloween concert and party on October 30 at 8.15 p.m. at the schoolhouse to raise funds for "The Crippled Children's Fund."

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Cave have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Anderson for a couple of weeks.

Mrs. Sharples, Mrs. Hewlings, Miss Gladys Hewlings, Miss Nora Hewlings and Mr. Breeze spent the week-end at Malahat Farm, Mrs. Hewlings remaining for a week.

Mrs. W. Edwards of Comox, who was a delegate from that W.I. to the Conference of Islands Districts at Victoria visited at Malahat Farm, where Mrs. W. Edwards, Jr., accompanied by her little son Wilfred has been staying with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Anderson. They motored back to Comox next day.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Milligan have returned from Seattle, where they spent a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Goucher of Langford, paid a visit to Shirley last week-end.

BOY DISAPPEARED

Seattle, Oct. 27.—The police here admit failure to find Raymond Moran, seventeen, of Ketchikan, Alaska, who disappeared in Seattle September 4 while on his way to St. Martin's College, Lacey, Wash. Investigators say the boy registered at a Seattle hotel September 5, but did not claim his baggage from a steamship company. He carried a $400 cheque payable to the head of the college.

Aga Khan Pays Fortune For Irish Racehorse

Reuter's Special to The Victoria Times

London, Oct. 27.—A record price of 17,000 guineas for an Irish-bred yearling has been paid by the Aga Khan.

The yearling is a colt by Hurry On out of Eclair, and was bred at the National Stud, Tully, County Kildare.

Previously the highest price paid for a yearling had been 14,500 guineas by Lord Glanely, in 1920, for Blue Ensign. Blue Ensign never won a race, and once actually fell over when he had nothing to beat. Last year Sir Victor Sassoon paid 12,000 guineas for Pete (an own sister to Colah), whom it has not yet been possible to train. The Aga Khan gave 10,500 guineas for Gay Baby, who has been unsuccessful in all of her four races.

But the biggest yearling bargain ever made was with the famous Sceptre. At the disposal of the late Duke of Westminster's stud in 1900, Mr. Sievier went to the famous figure of 10,000 guineas for this filly. Among other races, Sceptre won the One Thousand and Two Thousand Guineas, the Oaks, and St. Leger, although beaten out of a place in the Derby by Ard Patrick. Later she was sold for £25,000 to Sir William Bass.

Kipling Only Blinks as Girl Tries to Impress

Reuter's Special to The Victoria Times

London, Oct. 27.—Here is a little story now being told about Rudyard Kipling. At Rottingdean some years ago, while Kipling and some friends were sitting on the lawn under a tree watching some juniors playing croquet, a young girl, anxious to impress, came up and asked: "Do you know what tree this is?"

No one answered.

"It is the sumach," she said, "the only word in the English language where 'su' is pronounced as if it were spelled 'shu'."

"Are you sure, Miss Jones?" murmured Kipling, blinking lazily at her.

Petri and Lands Now Lead Six-day Bicycle Marathon at Chicago

Chicago, Oct. 27.—The German-American team of Petri and Lands, and the Italian-American combination of Giorgi and McNamara, battled for the lead as the field of fifteen sped to-day toward the halfway point in the six-day bike grip at the Coliseum.

Having usurped the Georgetti-McNamara lead Monday night, Petri and Lands pressed the advantage last night and jumped well ahead in point scoring. At midnight, the fifty-first hour, they were one lap ahead after traveling 334 miles, with the third division leaders several laps behind.

IN STEP WITH OPPORTUNITY AND PROGRESS

To the Editor:—The business brains of Canada, supported by every indication, have recently announced without unwarranted optimism, that the Dominion is entering upon an era of very substantial progress, and from the prognostications of many of the most eminent, the Province of British Columbia will be the first region to benefit and have opportunities presented for her grasping. Will Victoria sail with the wind and race for some of those opportunities?

The answer to the question rests solely with the citizens, as without their unstinted support of a concerted, organized effort by the city government and public bodies, any foundation for building of the city industrially, no matter how well constructed, must necessarily fail.

"Absolutely essential to port development is industrial progress, as a port without tonnage assurance can be little more than a way port. Further, transient tonnage alone does not represent a very extensive payroll. Local industry development is necessary to stimulate local trade through the distribution of a substantial payroll, to say nothing of the production of export commodities and their attraction to this port of ocean shipping for their transportation.

The primary elements necessary to the successful development of the city industrially can be supplied only by the citizens themselves. Without faith in their city and its potentialities as an industrial and distributing centre they cannot expect that the outsider will be attracted to its opportunities.

It is disheartening to ordinary business intelligence to have "the man on the street" express the view that Victoria can never be anything more than a tourist resort and residential city. What is the future of the city to be under such an estimate? What of your growing sons?

The little city of Port Angeles, our near neighbor, is an excellent example of self-dependence and initiative. Instead of depending on outside help to solve their problems, the business men went down in their own pockets and built the foundation for their present industrial progress, and which is merely a preliminary stage to much greater industrial expansion. Only a year ago the citizens of Port Angeles reported a bond issue to the extent of half a million dollars for port development, and that work is now in progress.

It is a peculiar anomaly that the citizens of some communities who have money to invest can be attracted by some long-shot midday-flavored scheme, distantly removed, that they know of only upon the representation of some glib promoter, whereas if they are asked to support financially some well-founded and logical industry in their city that may carry every element for an assured success, they usually follow the floating feather down the river of doubt with a lack of faith in the future possibilities of the city, and help to contribute to its stagnation.

Mr. H. F. Alexander, president Pacific Steamship Company, in a recent address to the Seattle Chamber of Commerce on the subject of industry development, presented this argument: "A thousand dollars invested in our industries provides employment for our own citizens, and the wages they receive are immediately placed in circulation by them for the necessities of life from which we all directly or indirectly benefit. Charity begins at home, and so should our investments."

Victoria has every opportunity to develop industrially if proper vision and judgment are used in the promotion, but the mistakes of the past should be avoided and concentration placed on the establishment of industries that are logical to our environment and based on our raw materials. Our greatest natural resource is our timber, and what safer foundation upon which to build than the various branches of the timber products manufacture, with an extensive export market open to development? Canada exports but a very small percentage of the building lumber requirements of Australia and New Zealand.

There is a strong developing market in Australia for cedar which is becoming a very popular wood for interior trim in the shape of paneling, mouldings, sash and doors, blinds, etc. New Zealand has taken up seriously the adoption and use of the ready cut wooden house (of the bungalow type), and is placing orders in the United States. There is a wide market for box shooks, and a strongly potential market under the extension of inter-Empire trade for all articles of soft wood manufacture.

A very important question for consideration, if industrial expansion is to be undertaken upon a properly ambitious scale, and that is the question of industry sites with the necessary forebore and open way. The Songhees reserve, with its restricted forebore, is suitable only for small sized industries; therefore what better location than the tide lands of Esquimalt harbor with its unrestricted expanse of water for log towage and storage?

If Victoria is to make a real start towards industrial development it must be done on a bold policy endorsed by the progressive foresight and civic pride of the citizens. To this end it is suggested that the city of Victoria acquire by purchase on long term lease certain suitable acreage for large industry establishment on Esquimalt harbor, and offer this, at attractive figures upon a yearly rental basis or on lease.

The financing of the project, which would include the purchase of the necessary area and costs of promotion, might be undertaken without any appreciable change in the current tax rate, through the allocation for the purpose of funds secured from the sale of timber tracts in the Goldstream watershed, controlled by the city.

It will be found that the municipality of Esquimalt will meet Victoria half way on taxation and other concessions.

If Victoria is to get in step with opportunity and progress a campaign of education directed to the industrial consciousness of the people must be fostered.

LIBERALS OF B.C. HONOR DR. J. H. KING

1,200 Citizens at Reception in Vancouver While Minister a Visitor

B.C.'s Cabinet Representative Tells of New Plans to Aid Immigrants

Vancouver, Oct. 27.—Nearly twelve hundred citizens welcomed Hon. J. H. King, Federal Minister of Health and Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment, on his first appearance in Vancouver since the recent general election, the reception being held in the Hotel Vancouver last night.

Long before the appearance of the Minister and his party, which included Premier John Oliver and three Provincial Cabinet Ministers, the ballroom and corridors were packed with friends of the Liberal Party.

When Frank McConnell, chairman of the reception committee, opened the reception every available space within carrels was occupied.

Many who could not hear the addresses had to be satisfied with shaking the hand of Dr. King after the speeches.

MINISTER SPOKE
Congratulations and tributes were paid to Dr. King by Premier Oliver, Hon. W. H. Sutherland, Hon. E. D. Barrow and Hon. A. M. Manson.

Premier Oliver declared he regarded the Federal election results within the Province as a stimulant to the party rather than a disappointment. He complimented Dr. King on his election in East Kootenay.

In reply Dr. King conveyed to the gathering the regrets of Mrs. King that she was unable to attend the reception because of illness.

He spoke of the general policy of the King Government and his new duties as Minister of Health and Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment.

UNITY IS DESIRED
The Government he represented sought to cement the various parts of Canada into a unit, he said. It should be remembered, he added, that this could not be done by endeavoring to satisfy only British Columbia or any other individual section of the Dominion.

Speaking of his own offices, Dr. King pledged himself to the cause of the returned soldiers.

"My mission will be to see justice performed," he stated.

AID FOR IMMIGRANTS
Development of a scheme designed to accommodate immigrants in Canada was proceeding in his department, he reported. It was planned to introduce a plan whereby prospective immigrants would be examined in their countries, he said, thus avoiding the possibility of their being turned away after having staked their entire belongings on a trip to Canada.

Hon. W. H. Sutherland predicted that at the next general election British Columbia would return a solid Liberal representation.

When the addresses were concluded, the guests were presented to the Minister, following which a buffet luncheon was served. The reception concluded with dancing.

Mrs. King sent to Mr. McConnell and the guests an expression of her gratitude for a bouquet, which was presented to her by Mrs. Mary Ellen Smith, M.P.P., president of the British Columbia Liberal Association.

H.B.C. Employees To Dance in Fancy Dress Next Week

Halloween costumes and fancy dress will be worn by Hudson's Bay Company employees at their monthly dance to be held in the Alexandra Hall next Tuesday evening.

The event promises to be a big success for six valuable prizes are offered by the committee, one each for the ladies' best fancy costume, most original costume and best comic costume, and gentlemen's best fancy costume, most original costume and best comic costume. Harold Diggon and Lieut. and Mrs. Cossette have consented to act as judges for the evening.

Dancing will commence promptly at 8 o'clock, the march past being scheduled for 10 o'clock.

Charlie Hunt's "Victorians" will be in attendance with a full programme of up-to-date musical hits. Admission will be restricted to invitation holders, the committee announces.

QUADRA CASE ARGUED IN U.S.

Washington, Oct. 27.—Construction of the treaty between Great Britain and the United States relating to seizure of rum smugglers off the United States coast is not involved in the case before the Supreme Court of the United States involving the seizure of the Canadian steamship Quadra off the California coast. Solicitor General Mitchell said to-day in arguing the issue before the Supreme Court.

Counsel for members of the Quadra's crew, who were arrested at San Francisco after seizure of the vessel on a rum running charge, had contended the treaty permitted confiscation of a vessel only when within an hour's sailing distance of the United States shore, but not prosecution of the crew.

Solicitor Mitchell argued the British Government had never held the United States could not try British subjects taken aboard rum runners, and that the only interest the British Government had shown in the matter was to obtain early trials for the

VANCOUVER PLANE ACCIDENT IS MADE SUBJECT OF INQUIRY

Vancouver, Oct. 27.—A court of inquiry was held to-day at the Pacific Beach Station of the Canadian Air Force by Lieut.-Colonel A. L. Coote, officer commanding the Brigade in Vancouver, and Major M. L. Pope, Vice-Commodore of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, into the circumstances of the seaplane accident Monday night on English Bay here, when three men were painfully injured.

All three patients were doing well, Squadron Leader J. H. Tudhope, officer commanding the Vancouver unit, reported.

QUEEN OF ROMANIA VISITS MONTREAL

She and Son and Daughter Greeted There; Will Travel to Winnipeg

Montreal, Oct. 27. (By D. Field Brittle Staff Correspondent of The Associated Press)—Montreal welcomed Queen Marie of Rumania to-day with ovation and programme of entertainment that kept her busy throughout the day after her arrival shortly before ten o'clock from Toronto.

Well rested by a good night's sleep, Marie and Princess Ileana began their visit here with a call at the City Hall, where Mayor McDevide Martin presented the city's greetings.

Prince Nicholas remained with the party only for the reception by city officials at the station, being whisked away then on a mission of his own. With officials of the Canadian National Railways, the Prince made a study of Montreal's terminal facilities.

GREETED SUBJECTS
Meanwhile Queen Marie and Ileana were meeting members of the city council and making a motor tour of the city before taking lunch at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel. The inspection of the city was featured by Marie's greeting of Rumanian subjects at the consulate.

To-night the visitors will be dinner guests of George A. Simard, Rumanian consul-general in Montreal, and afterward they will attend a Chateaufort performance of the opera "The Barber of Seville."

Montreal gave the queen an enthusiastic reception that brought bows and hand-waving from Marie as she rode through crowded streets. Royal Canadian Mounted Police formed a line of march from the queen's car to her automobile at the station and they quickly caught the eye and admiration of Marie, who has made friends with many policemen on her tour.

The special train will leave Montreal after midnight and arrive in Ottawa to-morrow morning for the all-day stay before beginning the two-day jump across country to Winnipeg.

MANITOBA PROTEST
Winnipeg, Oct. 27.—Protest against the Government of Manitoba being a party to a public reception to Queen Marie of Rumania upon her arrival here next Saturday was lodged with Hon. R. W. Craig, K.C., Attorney-General, by a delegation representative of the Ukrainian population of Manitoba.

The delegation claimed Rumania had violated the Treaty of Versailles and has mistreated Ukrainians who, by the peace treaty, had been promised full civil and religious freedom under Rumanian rule. Some 1,500,000 Ukrainians were under Rumanian rule, and these, it was declared, had been deprived of their freedom and rights granted to minorities by the Treaty of Versailles.

The delegation was headed by D. Yakimishchak, M.P.P. for Emerson.

SALE OF THEATRE CAUSED TWO DEATHS

Chicago Purchaser Was Disappointed; Wounded Man; Killed Self

Chicago, Oct. 27.—Two persons lost their lives and eight were injured as a result of shooting that ended when Albert Schmidt, theatre owner, turned a revolver on himself with fatal effects.

The second to lose his life was not the target of Schmidt's fire. Detective Sergeant Walter Tilley was killed when an automobile collided with a detective squad car speeding to the theatre.

The patrons of the house were unaware of the shooting until A. Wertheimer staggered from the basement. Wertheimer, wounded twice, said Schmidt, to whom he had recently sold the West Side Movie House, had asked him to come to the theatre. Schmidt had hired him into the cellar, he said, and after making incoherent statements about disappointment in the concern, began firing.

The seven persons in the auto which collided with the detective car were injured, but none seriously.

EVIDENCE CONTRADICTED

Vancouver, Oct. 27.—Denial of Simon Henry Hendricks' allegations was made on Tuesday by Jake Raphael to Mr. Justice Murphy at the trial in Supreme Court here of the Alliance Insurance Company vs. Vogue Limited and its managing director, Paul J. Burde. Raphael attended on subpoena ordered by Judge after Hendricks had testified he had been approached by Raphael to change his mind about evidence he would give in the case.

MARITIME AGITATION

St. John, N.B., Oct. 27.—"If the terms of the Dunsmuir Commission report are not carried out it will be found the agitation in connection with the Maritime Provinces has only started," declared J. B. McKenna, in an address to-day before the twentieth annual meeting of the Union of New Brunswick Municipalities.

WEDDING PROSPECTS HANDICAP GIRLS WHO FAIL IN BUSINESS

Average Maximum of Salaries of Women Working Lower and Lower

Conscious or Unconscious Contemplation of Matrimony Impairs Their Efficiency

New York, Oct. 27.—Why aren't women more successful in business? In New York City, contrary to the general impression, women in business are failures, ten of the best-known employment agency directors say.

The average maximum in women's salaries is getting lower and now, it is estimated, a girl holding one of the better jobs such as a private secretary, can expect a salary of only $35 a week. A year ago the market was better, a girl doing the higher-class office work could expect a salary of $40 a week.

INEFFICIENCY IS CHARGED
Why haven't these girls succeeded? After serious consideration of the matter, employment agency directors in New York City decided that the probable reason is that most women are hindered by the conscious or subconscious belief that some day they are going to get married.

The reason for this drop is due not to business conditions, but to the general inefficiency of women, says Miss Louise C. Hahn, one of the most prominent women engaged in the finding of jobs for other women.

THEN THE YEARS SLIP BY
Almost every girl at eighteen and twenty, they say, whether she is pretty or homely, pink-checked or freckled, believes that some day she will find a husband. So when she takes her first job she doesn't try half as hard as she might if she thought that all her life she must be self-supporting. In this way ten years slip by and hundreds of women haven't either a husband or a good job.

Take Mary — for instance. The man who began with the company the same day that she did is now vice-president of the company at a salary of $10,000 a year and she is still just a stenographer at $35 a week.

Miss Hahn, in discussing the subject, said: "Girls never think of the future. A girl drifts indifferently from one job to another, without working hard to advance herself. Her mind is busy all day with the dress in the Fifth Avenue shop that she expects to copy or the man she met at the dance the night before.

"I have known girls to drift along in this way for years. They come back to me five years later in search of a new position and they can't ask for a larger salary than the salary they are getting because they haven't gained any valuable business experience in the five years' time. Usually they are even less desirable employees. They feel an impotence and a superiority to younger employees and in many instances they show it in an unpleasant way. Many girls come into employment agencies in New York City, Miss Hahn says, wanting to change their jobs because they can't stand the boss. The reason in nine cases out of ten is the young upstart thinks he knows everything. I was there before he was, and I am not going to take orders from him."

A SERIAL STORY

"The Unwilling Adventuress"

By MILDRED BARBOUR

Hartley was sure she was flirting with the foreigner, who paid her devoted attention—that is, as nearly as Doris did. It seemed that she had only to smile and turn her green eyes on a chap, to have the poor fool fall, thought Hartley. Doris rarely talked much; she merely listened. Hartley had never been able to make up his mind whether she was stupid, or merely lazy.

Without giving any open evidence of doing so, Hartley watched her out of the corner of his eye all during the dinner hour. When her companion left her for a few moments to speak to a man at another table, Doris remained passively seated, looking with mild interest over the brilliant throng that dined and chatted around her. She appeared typically Parisian in a simple black mousseline dress and a small hat, its crown pierced with a green dagger. She wore a string of odd carved beads, a cross between a necklace and a brooch, and they matched her eyes.

"After a moment's hesitation, Hartley excused himself to his dinner companion and, crossing the room, seated himself in the Count's vacant chair.

"How are you getting along?" he inquired stiffly.

"Splendidly," Doris favored him with a dazzling smile. She apparently did not harbor spite; her distrust and disapproval merely slumbered peacefully.

There was a silence. Then Hartley said:

"Doris, are you sure you ought to run around with that fellow who calls himself the Count de Rivet? He doesn't look quite all right to me."

"He's very distinguished, don't you think?" she inquired pleasantly. "And why should you mind?"

"I don't," declared Hartley with unnecessary heat.

To change the subject, which she showed no evidence of doing, he said gloomily:

"That's a remarkably lovely necklace you're wearing."

Her slim white fingers strayed caressingly to the green beads. "Isn't it? Ivan gave it to me for a birthday present—you remember him; the Russian poet you met at tea at my apartment?"

Hartley controlled, with an effort, his reaction to this news, delivered with such matter-of-factness.

"I think," he said with dignity, "that you make a great mistake to accept such a gift from a foreigner. These men don't understand. You're likely to compromise yourself pretty seriously."

"Oh, but Ivan's different," declared Doris serenely. "He's only a boy really, and he comes from such a distinguished Russian family."

Survives of the late Czar, or something. He has a title but he doesn't use it since the new government. He writes divine poetry."

"No doubt odds to your eyes and like piffle," said Hartley rudely.

"How did you guess?" bubbled Doris.

He arose, seeing the Count in the distance and having no mind to meet him again.

"I expect to leave Paris shortly and take a run down to Biarritz," he announced.

"I hope you have a lovely time," said Doris, giving him her hand, and a beaming smile.

A few minutes later, he collected his American friend, left the restaurant and stalked throughout a hilarious French farce at the Comedie Theatre.

Doris went on with the Count to a "soiree" at the apartment of a friend of his, a dilettante and patron of the arts—as the Count explained.

He proved to be a delightful man of cosmopolitan charm, who was entertaining very smart and clever people in his imitation Sixteenth Century salon. There was music and Doris was persuaded to sing and ended by being showered with compliments. She made half a dozen delightful acquaintances and promised to have tea with her host the following day.

"To-morrow," said the Count, "I am going to take you to dine at the studio of a very famous artist. It is a good friend of mine. You will find him very amusing and he will fall madly in love with you at once. On Saturday, you are invited, through me, to tea with a patron of letters who will show you some original manuscripts which are said to have been a part of the library at Alexandria."

"How nice you are to me," sighed Doris, looking up at the moon that was just rising above the wooded, purple shadows of the Bois.

He kissed her fingertips.

"You have become my world, ma chérie."

CHAPTER XXXIX

"Oh! So you didn't go to Biarritz after all?"

Doris had wandered into the cool shade of the Luxembourg and was sitting on the parapet of the famous fountain group, where the spray from Neptune's attendant sea serpents fell gratefully on her warm flushed face.

She saw Hartley before he saw her and noticed that as he strolled he was looking up toward the sky, which housed her own tiny apartment. He came to a halt at the sound of her voice, and as he removed his hat, flushed darkly.

"You didn't go to Biarritz after all," she repeated.

"I—no—the chap I was going with was called suddenly back to America." He seated himself beside her, lighted a cigarette from his case.

The conversation languished momentarily.

"It's hot!" remarked Hartley, shifting nearer the cooling spray.

"Paris is an inferno in summer. Thank Heaven, it's almost Autumn now."

"Why do you stay, if you don't like it, when you're the whole world to tumble over?" Doris inquired sensibly.

He had no apt reply to that and poked the smooth sword with his stick.

"I must be going," said Doris, rising. "Ivan—Mr. Ivanoff is coming in to tea and I'm already late. Good-bye."

She turned away only to find him beside her.

"Why do you treat me like a leper?" he demanded. "Do you really think so badly of me?"

She met his angry eyes with a level gaze.

"How could I think anything else in view of the circumstances that threw us together for a little while?"

He made an impatient gesture.

"It's no use trying to make me understand. I don't understand very well myself."

Doris made no comment. Apparently she was not at all interested.

He accompanied her to the outer door of her apartment building and there she bid him a pleasant good-bye for the second time, without asking him to come up for tea.

He continued on down the sun-baked street, cursing himself for putting himself in the way of meeting her and taking oath that it would never happen again.

BEDTIME STORY

Uncle Wiggily And Lulu Quack

Copyright, 1926, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate

By HOWARD R. GARIS

Jimmie Wibblewobble, the duck boy, waddled very fast over to Uncle Wiggily's hollow stump bungalow one day.

"Good morning, Jimmie," greeted the old rabbit gentleman, as he hopped out on the front steps, twinkling his pink nose. "You are sure early to school this morning!" went on Mr. Longears.

"Quackity, ack, ack!" said Jimmie. "What's that?" asked Uncle Wiggily, for the boy duck was excited.

"I'm running to get Dr. Possum!"

And mumbled his words so queerly that the bunny could not understand him. "What did you say, Jimmie?"

"Ock, ack, quackity!" spluttered Jimmie.

"I guess you must be playing some game!" laughed the rabbit uncle. "But as I don't know the rules, Jimmie, I can't play it with you. However, don't be late for school! The Lady Mouse teacher doesn't like her pupils to come late."

Then Jimmie seemed to find his voice, for he quacked:

"I'm not going to school, Uncle Wiggily! At least not right away. I'm running to get Dr. Possum!"

"Dr. Possum!" exclaimed Mr. Longears. "Who is ill at your house, Jimmie? I know it can't be you, for you look fine."

"Oh, I'm all right!" answered the boy duck. "It's my sister, Lulu."

"What's the matter with Lulu?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"She has lost her quack!" answered Jimmie.

"Ho! Ho! Ha! Ha!" laughed Uncle

Wiggily. "You are teasing me! The idea of a little duck girl losing her quack! I guess you mean she has lost the penny I gave her last week to buy a lollypop, Jimmie. Lulu lost her penny down a crack—she didn't lose her quack!"

"Oh, yes she did, Uncle Wiggily!" exclaimed Jimmie. "Excuse me for seeming to contradict you," he went on, politely, "but Lulu has lost her quack, and I'm going to get Dr. Possum to see if he can make her a new one!"

"Oh, dear, this is very sad and quite too bad!" said the rabbit gentleman. "Very well, Jimmie, you waddle along after the doctor and I will go to your house to see what I can do."

When Uncle Wiggily reached the pen where the duck lived, he found every one much excited. Alice, the other duck girl, was hurrying here and there, trying to help her mother, who was quacking away at a great rate. Mr. Wibblewobble was scurrying around so fast in the yard that a lot of his feathers were flying out. As for Lulu, she sat in an easy chair, with some bed quilts wrapped around her.

"What is this I hear about you, Lulu?" asked Uncle Wiggily. "Jimmie said you had lost your quack—have you?"

Lulu opened her beak, but only some whispering sounds came out. Try as she did, she could not speak, or quack, which is a duck's way of talking.

"Dear me! It's true! Lulu has lost her quack!" said Uncle Wiggily, and he knew it was very serious. For when a duck girl loses her quack it's as bad as if a little puppy dog lost his bark. "Where did you lose it, Lulu?" asked the bunny. "I'll go look and see if I can find it."

All Lulu could do was to hiss and whisper. Not a quack could she make. But her mother said for her: "Lulu must have lost her quack down at the pond."

"She and I were sliding on the thin ice last night," quacked Alice. "I'll go to the pond and look!" offered the bunny. But as he was leaving in came Dr. Possum and Jimmie, and as soon as the animal doctor looked at Lulu, listened to her breathing and had heard her try to talk, he said:

"Pooh! She hasn't lost her quack! She has just caught cold and her throat is swelled and she is so hoarse she can't quack. I'll soon fix her!" So Dr. Possum gave Lulu some medicine that soothed her sore throat and the next day she could quack as well and as loudly as ever.

"I'm very glad," said Uncle Wiggily when he heard about it. "But I might have had an adventure if I had looked for Lulu's quack—that was a lost. However, perhaps it is best as it is. And so it was, I think. Anyhow, if the June Bug doesn't sit down on the fly paper instead of reading it as he should, properly, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's roast potatoes."

Home-made Remedy Stops Cough Quickly

Finest cough medicine you ever used. Family supply easily made. Serves about $2.

You might be surprised to know that the best thing you can use for a severe cough, is a remedy which is easily prepared at home in just a few moments. It's cheap, but for prompt results it beats anything else you ever tried. Usually stops the ordinary cough or chest cold in 24 hours. Tastes pleasant—children like it, and it is pure and good.

Four 2½ ounces of Pinex in a 16-oz. bottle; then fill it up with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or use clarified honey, instead of sugar syrup. Thus you make 16 ounces—a family supply—but costing no more than a small bottle of ready-made cough syrup.

And as a cough medicine, there is really nothing better to be had at any price. It goes right to the spot and gives quick, lasting relief. It promptly breaks the inflamed membranes that line the throat and air passages, stops the annoying throat tickle, loosens the phlegm, and soon your cough stops entirely. Speeds recovery from bronchitis, laryngitis and whooping cough.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway pine extract and palatable glycerol, famous for healing the membranes.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

(Copyright)

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 28, 1926

Astrologers read this as rather a threatening day, for the Moon, Mars, Jupiter and Neptune are all in threatening aspect.

While this planetary government prevails there may be a strong mental recognition of menacing influences, and it is well to cultivate a sanguine attitude of mind.

Irritability that leads to quarrels and hasty action is supposed to be one of the effects of this configuration.

Domestic upheavals may take place under this direction of the stars, which is conducive to divorce.

This is held to be an unlucky wedding day since deception and intrigue may be developed by bride or bridegroom.

There is held to be a sinister way to-day which makes for dishonesty and misinformation. Truth may be easily crushed to earth.

It is not a favorable time for beginning journeys which have as their aim the selling of merchandise.

Persons who are employed should be especially careful to be faithful in even the smallest duties at this time when small failings may be easily magnified.

Increased interest in science and philosophy is foretold, and there will be a decided trend toward serious things. It is prognosticated.

Women may be happy in the thought that astrologers foretell for America almost universal beauty for women.

After too much sentimentalism men and women are to reach a plane

Although he has already been approached with a view to ascertaining his intentions, Reeve R. P. Matheson has not yet declared himself. Councillor Pomroy has been asked to run in the reeve'ship fight, but so far has refrained from making any statement.

James Elrik resides at 854 Colville Road, and is a member of the firm of Fairbairn Limited, holding membership with the Masonic Order, Odd Fellow and R.A.O.B. In announcing his candidature, Mr. Elrik asserted that so many persons had asked him to present himself for office that he could not well refuse.

Councillor Cox has announced his intention of seeking re-election.

CHINA IS SLOW TO USE AUTOMOBILE

Willis-Overland Man Back From Far East Tells of Trade's Difficulties

That the unsettled conditions in China made it impossible to spread the automobile industry here, to the assertion of motor men all through the Orient, according to A. C. Aubrey, Oriental agent for the Willis-Overland Incorporated, who arrived in Victoria aboard the S.S. "President" Jackson here yesterday. Although the trade was not growing by leaps and bounds, there was still some advance, and conditions were such that dealers might be optimistic, he declared.

As a matter of fact, there was a demand for automobiles only among the Europeans and some few of the wealthy Chinese. But there was plenty of room for development among a certain class of Oriental merchants who could well afford to operate cars. They only needed education up to the point where they would appreciate their value, said Mr. Aubrey.

Mr. Aubrey's own experience in the Far East has taught him that the business is difficult. It takes the steady hand and calculating brain of a shrewd business man to make a success of the automobile trade. He was proud to say, however, that the reputation of his company's cars put them in good demand, and that he controlled a wide market in many of the big centres of the Orient. China, as yet, he said, was not well adapted to automobile travel. There were two main reasons.

The first of these was the unsettled condition of the country, making it highly unlikely that motorists would journey far afield. Bandits might take a liking to their cars. Military men might take a fancy to them, and put them to their own use at the expense of the owners. The second reason, and it was a good one too, was the lack of good roads. The roads of the interior were particularly bad, it was said. Only in the cities were they good for automobile travel.

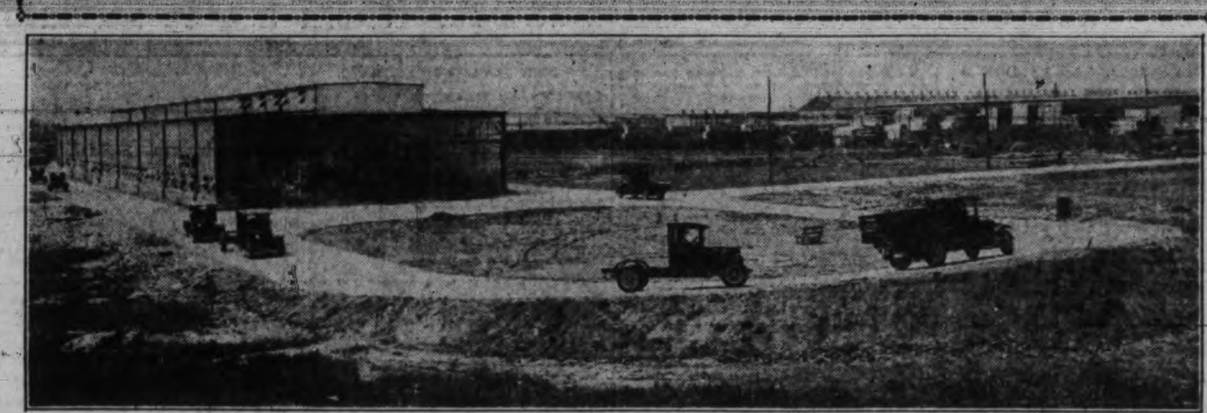

JAPAN USES CARS Japan presented a different problem. There the automobile was used widely for commercial purposes, as was the case in China. But it was also a source of recreation and pleasure to many, and the nation differed in this respect to the Chinese. Japanese, it was generally considered, were an earlier people to cultivate than the Chinese, and they more readily accepted the customs of the Occident—and with them the motor car.

The time would come ultimately, however, when China's troubles were at an end, or when her various provinces realized the necessity of good roads for faster transportation, and the time the automobile would come into its own. The Willis-Overland Company would be among the first rank of cars in that contingency, he firmly believed. They were already proven in their worth. The people of China, who knew automobiles, recognized them as a machine that was hard to equal for service and satisfaction.

Record records of the Mobile and Ohio Railroad show that it was used 100 out to the railroad at the rate of $20 to $25 a month.

BEJ FOR SOUR STOMACH

Where Graham Brothers Products Are Tested

This 320 by 80-foot steel and brick structure, which is to house Graham Brothers final test department, was built 600 feet east of the 600x850-foot building in which their final assembly department is located, and is connected with it by an 18-foot concrete roadway. The quarter-mile concrete test track surrounding the building is 18 feet wide with the outer edge of the turns elevated five feet. "As public highways have previously been used for the purpose," said E. G. Wilmer, president of Dodge Brothers, Inc., "this test track will greatly simplify the problem of giving a thorough road test to each of the rapidly increasing number of Graham Brothers trucks and motor coaches now being produced."

TELLS OF ISRAEL'S INFLUENCE ON MAN

Rev. H. T. Archbold Traces Jewish People's History and Characteristics

The religious life of old Israel, the first people to worship in monotheistic fashion, prepared the way for the coming of Christianity and its spread throughout the world, declared Rev. H. T. Archbold, who lectured at the Memorial Hall last night before a large audience. This was the last of a series of three lectures, which dealt with the contributions of Greece, then Rome, and finally Judaism to the present age. Last night the speaker reviewed the history of the Jewish people, throughout their years of suffering, from the time that they were led out of Egypt to to-day.

Israel had been one of the most potent influences in the history of mankind, said the speaker, because they were the first people to adopt a monotheistic religion, worshipping one God, one divine ruler. The debt the present owed the past of Israel was wholly religious. It was not, however, until Greece and Rome had been at work that the Israelite beliefs came into the mainstream of the world's thought. It was after the two latter nations had shed their rays of influence upon mankind, that civilization began to react to the Jewish teachings, preachings and history.

Israel's three great discoveries, Rev. Archbold cited as follows: First, God; second, man; third, nature and the laws of nature.

The last finding was least important, because, although the discovery had changed the habits and surroundings of man, it had changed his character but little, if at all. Under the belief that they were the chosen people of God, the Jewish people attained a strong nation spirit, a solidarity and unity, which never totally deserted them even in their days of affliction and degeneracy. The foundation of the people's unity was religious. It was therefore unshaken. It was, however, a fact that they considered their God a God for them only. It was not for generations and until the sufferings had broadened them and humanized their hearts, that they came to regard their God as the God of the universe.

The Jews resisted the influence of Canaan both religiously and physically, when their forces met on the field of battle. Their own religion predominated. Long before the dispersal of the Jews, their prophets forewarned them. It was Amos, who told them that they would be broken and scattered, but rather by Jehovah than any outside enemy, who should come in other guise. His guise was in the armor of the Assyrians, the helmets of the Babylonians, on the chariots of the Persians and beneath the standards of the Legions of Rome. In their downfall they saw only the power of Jehovah and his triumph over wickedness and sin. It was their punishment.

God, to the Hebrew, influenced their everyday lives. It was a strangely dogged race, able to withstand all sorts of oppression and suffering. Their religion, which had kept them intact, although it had wandered into far places, and had been allowed up in the millions of other lands than theirs. But their stamp was on humanity, nevertheless, and their influence were there, to remain forever.

To Win a Husband

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

I don't know a man who doesn't like jam. I believe matrimonial bureaus would do a hand-office business in husbands if they put among the credentials of their feminine clients, "She can make good old-fashioned gooseberry jam, and for cherry preserves she can't be beat." The "billy boys" would be elbowing each other out of line at her door.

Have you ever entertained a bachelor who dines at his club or hotel and who knows no "spreads" save mint gelatinized jelly with his lamb, a paper thimble of aeneas, apses with his duck, guava with his patties, and with his turkey cranberries the color and consistency of dried blood?

If he asks if there is such a thing as jam to be had, the assistant waiter goes to the waiter, the waiter goes to the captain, the captain goes to the head waiter, the head waiter goes to the steward, and the steward goes to the management. In three-quarters of an hour he is presented with an individual glass the size of a spoon with a rich label that tells him it is orange marmalade. He dips in a tentative spoon and tastes it.

"Just as I suspected," he remarks to the flower holder. "Ups till to-day it has puzzled me to know what they did with the stuff they used to make overshoes out of."

Have you ever noticed your bachelor guest adroitly turn the conversation to jam? He will invariably. He may be Machiavellian enough to make you think you have had an in-

C. E. KING ENDED LIFE IN VANCOUVER

Building Contractor Shot Himself While in Stanley Park; Died in Hospital

Vancouver, Oct. 27.—With a bullet wound in his temple and a revolver lying beside him, Major Charles E. King, a building contractor, was found lying on a bench in Stanley Park this morning and rushed to a hospital, where he died in a short time.

Identification was made from bank books and several documents found in Major King's clothing and indications were that he had spent several hours on the bench attempting to solve some financial problem.

Major King was found reclining on his right side on a bench just off the footpath by the building of the Vancouver Rowing Club. The portion of the bench where he had been sitting was dry, while the remaining part was damp from the early morning mist. This was taken to indicate he had been there for a considerable period.

Coroner W. D. Brydson-Jack was notified of the tragedy by the authorities and the body now rests in the city morgue. It is expected an inquest will be held later in the week.

Conservatives Are Discussing Plans For Federal Convention

Toronto, Oct. 27.—The executive of the Federal Conservative Association met here yesterday.

It was officially announced after the meeting that W. A. Boys, K.C., a member of the parliamentary Conservative committee charged with making arrangements for the holding of a national Conservative convention next Summer, would present the views of the Dominion association on the matter of a convention to the committee at its first meeting, and would extend to the committee an invitation to meet the Dominion body for the purpose of co-operation and discussion of plans for the convention, which is to select a permanent leader of the party.

It was also decided by the Federal executive to communicate with the officers of the official Conservative associations throughout the country, requesting them to ascertain the opinions of the rank and file of their associations relative to the choice of a convention city and the time of the meeting. It was further decided to request the provincial associations to hold provincial conventions next year, a couple of months in advance of the national convention.

It was stated at the meeting that a majority of the replies to an initial letter sent out recommended the country-wide convention be held in Winnipeg next Summer.

Effort to Prevent Suicide Failed

New York, Oct. 27.—Miss Marjorie Leplante of Toronto nearly prevented a double suicide here last night, but failed in her attempt to save a scratched throat for her pains. She was unable to prevent Miss Dorothy Warschauer, thirty, from following her mother, Mrs. Bertha Warschauer, in a plunge from the eleventh floor of a hotel to the street and death.

Miss Leplante's cue in the tragedy came as she emerged from her bathroom on the ninth floor of the Martha Washington Hotel. She heard a crash far below and observed, caught outside her own window, the figure of Miss Warschauer. Miss Leplante's slight girl, gripped with the would-be suicide, who was struggling to free herself from the grill work on the ledge, where she had been caught after a fall of two stories.

Miss Virginia Bixby, directly above on the eleventh floor, heard Miss Warschauer scream, "Let me loose, I want to go to mother."

While Miss Bixby dashed down the stairs and pounded on the locked door of Miss Leplante's room, a Canadian girl held on grimly and tugged with a slipping hold. Miss Bixby heard the cry again, "Let go or I'll take you with me."

Collapse Followed

There followed a silence and then another splintering jar. Miss Leplante unlocked her door and collapsed. Blood was running down her throat where Miss Warschauer had scratched her.

Both women went to the window and looked down. On the light canopy below they could see two figures, the body of the heavier woman with arms out-flung and the lighter body leaning over a bracing chain.

The Warschauer women lived in Brooklyn. They apparently rented the room in the hotel with the deliberate purpose of committing suicide, for they asked for a room "high up, outside," and both leaped from the window shortly after they had registered as "Mrs. and Miss Walsh of Boston."

Dorothy Warschauer was said to have been treated recently at the Central Islip Hospital for the insane.

Oak Bay United Church Acquires Recreation Centre

The building formerly known as the Hampshire Road Methodist Church, and which is now the Hampshire Road branch of the Oak Bay United Sunday School, is being converted into a recreation hall for the various young people's groups of the church.

A furnace is being installed in the basement, and the building will be equipped for basketball and other games. It will also be used as a lecture hall and for concerts.

Additional chairs are being purchased in place of the pews. A number of men of the congregation are at work, and expect the hall to be completed very soon, when an opening night will be held. In future the building will be called Hampshire Road Hall.
